U.S. RULES OUT NEW BIDS TO REDS

State Dept. Suspends Vincent As Board Questions Loyalty

Diplomat Summoned Home; Davies Cleared

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The State Department today suspended Career Diplomat John Carter Vincent after a government board found "there is reasonable doubt as to his loyalty."

The action is subject to review by President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson.

At the same time, the department announced that the U. S. Civil Service Commission's Loyalty Review Board has found "no reasonable doubt about the loyalty" of John Paton Davies, Jr., another key State Department career officer.

Vincent Called Home

Both Vincent and Davies have figured in repeated inquiries into charges of Communist infiltration into the government.

The department announced that Vincent, now U. S. minister at Tangier, Morocco, has been summoned home.

The Loyalty Review Board of the Civil Service Commission recommended that Vincent be fired, the department said.

The department only suspended Vincent, however, and announced that President Truman will discuss the case with Secretary of State Acheson when Acheson returns from the NATO Conference at Paris this week end.

Budenz Accused Vincent

As for Davies, the review board said that regardless of "the wisdom or judgment of Mr. Davies as a foreign service officer" there was "no reasonable doubt" of his loyalty.

Davies is deputy director of the Office of Political Affairs in the office of the U. S. high commissioner for Germany, at Bonn.

Vincent was accused by Louis Budenz' former editor of the Communist Daily Worker, in testimony before the Senate security subcommittee of being a Communist and "under Communist discipline." He was criticized by the committee along with Owen Lattimore, Johns Hopkins University teacher, after Vincent underwent a four-day hearing early this year.

Court Turns Deaf Ear To Claim War Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Supreme Court today turned a deaf ear to a contention that the Korean War is unconstitutional.

It did so in refusing to intervene in the case of Stanley Dale Sydow who was sentenced to three years imprisonment for refusing to report for induction into the armed forces.

Sydow asked the high tribunal to issue a writ of habeas corpus releasing him from the county jail in Omaha. His request was filed by Atty. Fyke Farmer of Nashville, Tenn.

Farmer said the case raised the question of the President's authority to "ship boys to a foreign war . . . being waged solely by presidential orders without any declaration of war by the Congress and . . . therefore an illegal and unconstitutional war."

Caution On Tax Slash Favored By Legislators

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—Scores of incoming congressmen are raising a go-slow signal on moves to cut the government's record tax take.

Responding to an Associated Press poll, 54 per cent of the House members, and 74 per cent of the senators who took a definite stand said something like this:

They're either flatly against major tax cuts now or at least they want to wait, give Congress time to try to cut federal spending and balance the budget first.

Major Cuts In '53 Unlikely

This sentiment raises a prospect that major tax reductions, championed by Republicans in the presidential campaign, may not come before 1954.

But many lawmakers, especially in the House, voiced a cry of resentment against high taxes and obviously would like to pass on reductions to voters as soon as possible.

The figures showed this lineup:

More or less positively for early tax cuts—83 House members, including 51 Republicans and 32 Democrats; 10 senators, four Republicans and six Democrats.

Balance the budget and then see what can be done about taxes—68 House members, 38 Republicans and 30 Democrats; 18 senators, 13 Republicans and five Democrats.

Differ On Types Of Cuts

Simply inclined against tax cuts now—27 representatives, six Republicans and 21 Democrats; 12 senators, five Republicans and seven Democrats.

Fifty of the 268 congressmen who responded to the poll gave general replies that didn't take a stand either way. The other 263 lawmakers didn't reply or couldn't be reached.

When Congress does start lifting the tax burden, which taxes will it cut?

Opinions were scattered thus among congressmen calling for specific types of tax reductions: Individual income taxes, 42; excise sales taxes, 40; corporation income or excess profits taxes, 39.

49 Feared Drowned In Mine Shaft Flood

MANILA, Tuesday, Dec. 15 (AP)—A wall of water flooded the shaft of a gold mine 125 miles southeast of Manila Monday, trapping 49 workers who were feared drowned.

Twenty others were accounted for after the disaster.

A spokesman for Marsman and Company, agents for the United Parcale Mine in Carmarines Norte Province on Southeastern Luzon, said "everything possible" is being done to clear the mine, but officials saw little hope that any of the men would be found alive.

Electors Name Ike President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The nation's electoral college today chose Dwight D. Eisenhower as the 34th U. S. president—presumably by a 442 to 89 count.

This carries out the mandate of last Nov. 4, when the nation's voters chose the electors in casting a record 33,927,549 vote for Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, to 27,311,316 for Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic standard bearer.

But Eisenhower's selection as the next president still won't be official until Jan. 6 when Congress meets in joint session for the electoral college vote to be counted by the president of the Senate.

Even though most electors were free to vote as they please, the outcome of today's vote was taken for granted. Only three times in history has an elector voted other than for the candidate for whom he was commissioned to cast his ballot.

Eden, Acheson Discuss Oil Compromise Plan

PARIS, Dec. 15 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson discussed today an 11th hour move by President Truman's administration to break the Anglo-Iranian oil deadlock.

The American proposals were said to be based on two broad principles:

1. That the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. be compensated for the loss of its more than one billion dollar assets in Iran through some international body.

2. That the major American oil companies, the AIOC and the Iranian National Oil Board join together in a new group to run the oil industry in Iran and market its output.

Cosmotron, Most Powerful Atom Smasher, Dedicated

UPTON, N. Y., Dec. 15. (AP)—A giant machine today was dedicated to the task of discovering secrets of the insides of atoms and new secrets of the universe.

The machine is the Cosmotron, the world's most powerful atom smasher. It is a great doughnut shaped magnet, covered with a red plastic skin to keep it clean and rust-free, weighing 2,200 tons and measuring 75 feet in diameter.

It is the newest tool for learning what holds the hearts of atoms together, where the energy of stars comes from, what are the basic atomic facts of life of the universe.

The Cosmotron was dedicated at Brookhaven National Laboratories, one of the research centers of the Atomic Energy Commission, in ceremonies attended by 200 prominent scientists and educators from 10 nations.

Like a slingshot, it has hurled atomic bullets at the fantastic energies of 2,300,000,000 electron volts, sending them smashing into the cores of other atoms.

The collisions shatter atoms more powerfully than any machine yet built.

Chairman Of New WSC Will Press Wage Hike Cases

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The government put its wage controls program in the hands of a new Wage Stabilization Committee today and Chairman Charles C. Killingsworth promised fast action on a backlog of 12,000 pay increases awaiting approval.

"We will make every effort to get the maximum number of cases out before Christmas," Killingsworth told reporters.

The WSC was formed today by Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam to keep the pay controls program going in view of the resignation of all seven industry members from the Wage Stabilization Board.

84 Reds Killed As Allied Guards Quell POW Riot

120 More Wounded In Breakout Attempt

PUSAN, Korea, Tuesday, Dec. 16 (AP)—Allied guards quelled a mass breakout attempt by 3,600 die-hard North Korean Communist prisoners Sunday on Pongam Island, killing 84 and wounding 120 more.

Two U. S. and two South Korean soldiers also were injured by rock-hurling Reds who ignored all orders to halt and charged the guards in waves, the U. N. prisoner of war command announced.

The Allied announcement was expected to bring angry new protests from the Communist truce delegation and blasts from the Red radio.

Bloodiest Revolt Yet

It was the bloodiest uprising yet, exceeding by three the number of Red prisoners killed in a Feb. 18 riot on Koje Island.

Pongam is a small, terraced, wind-swept island about 1½ miles off the southwest tip of Koje.

The United Nations Command, in announcing the action Monday, said "orders, warning shots and riot guns had no effect on the organized mob."

"When three waves of fanatical Communists advanced on the guards, individual weapons were brought to bear when their power became necessary to prevent the entire mass from breaking out," the command said.

Unable To Use Tear Gas

The announcement did not further classify the "individual weapons" used, but presumably this included automatic carbines and submachineguns.

It said that wind blowing across prison camp site at the time of the uprising "prevented the use of tear gas to quell the rioters."

After an investigation, Col. C. V. Cadwell, commanding the U. N. prisoner of war command, praised the island commander, Lt. Col. George P. Miller, for "using sound judgment."

"Col. Miller did not use any more force than was necessary," Cadwell said. "He acted promptly. It could have been a very serious situation."

Appeals Court's Chief Judge To Retire Today

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 15 (AP)—Maryland's high court loses its second chief judge within four months when Charles Markell retires tomorrow at the judicially final age of 70.

Markell ends an eight year tour on the Court of Appeals because of the state's automatic retirement law.

Like Ogle Marbury, his predecessor as chief judge, the former corporation and constitutional lawyer from Baltimore bows out with regrets. He concedes retirement is "better too soon than too late."

Wife Sues Peter Lorre

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Actor Peter Lorre was sued for separation today by his wife, Mrs. Ingeborg Lorre. She asked $250 a week temporary alimony.

37 Still Stranded On Ship Hulk

Attempts To Get New Line Aboard Await Daylight

Three Are Rescued From Broken Vessel

LEGHORN, Italy, Tuesday, Dec. 16 (AP)—Efforts to rescue 37 cold and weary American seamen aboard the shattered stern of their refrigerator ship Grommet Reefer were suspended until daylight early today.

Winds of gale force piled the ship upon rocks 200 yards offshore early yesterday and broke her in two. Three of her crew were brought ashore by breeches buoy, but the line parted and the rest of the crew were left huddled precariously on the hulk.

The winds subsided into rainy 20-mile-an-hour squalls after midnight, erasing immediate danger of the ship firmly wedged on the rocks.

Crewmen "All Okay"

Just before midnight, Italian Navy men and U. S. sailors and soldiers from the U. S. base here started their fourth attempt in three hours to get a second cable aboard ship. They failed.

Capt. A. F. White, senior U. S. Naval officer at the American supply base, then ordered operations suspended until 6 a. m.

The ship's first engineer, Karl F. Treudler, said the bulk of the crew still aboard the 3,800-ton vessel had reported by radio they were "all okey." Treudler was one of the only three rescued by breeches buoy from the Grommet before the buoy cable snapped when the stern listed.

Carried Turkey For GIs

When efforts to bring the stranded crewmen in got under way, their situation was described by Capt. White as "desperate and grave."

All but five of the lights aboard the stern—whose brightness until then had given the ship a deceptive air of jaunty confidence—went out just before midnight. Navy men said the lights were cut off apparently in an effort to conserve fuel.

The ship's cargo was 176 tons of perishable foods, including seven tons of turkeys for Christmas dinners for GIs in Italy and Austria.

ROKs Beat Back Chinese Probes

SEOUL, Tuesday, Dec. 16 (AP)—Chinese patrols jabbed at Allied positions on the Kumhwa ridges of Central Korea five times last night and early today. Each time they were driven back.

The Communists began the harrassing attacks at dusk, closing to hand grenade range on Pinpoint Hill, dominant peak on Sniper Ridge. South Korean infantrymen, strongly entrenched on the icy slopes, threw them back.

The Eighth Army reported that the heaviest assault — by about 80 Chinese — was beaten off about midnight.

Only brief skirmishes were reported elsewhere along the front.

The Fifth Air Force reported fighter-bombers destroyed 95 vehicles in smashing at Communist supply arteries last night. Twelve B-29 Superforts struck at troop and supply targets near Pyongyang.

Earlier Monday, clearing weather touched off a series of 10 air battles over extreme Northeastern Korea in the first appearance of Russian-built MIGs in five days.

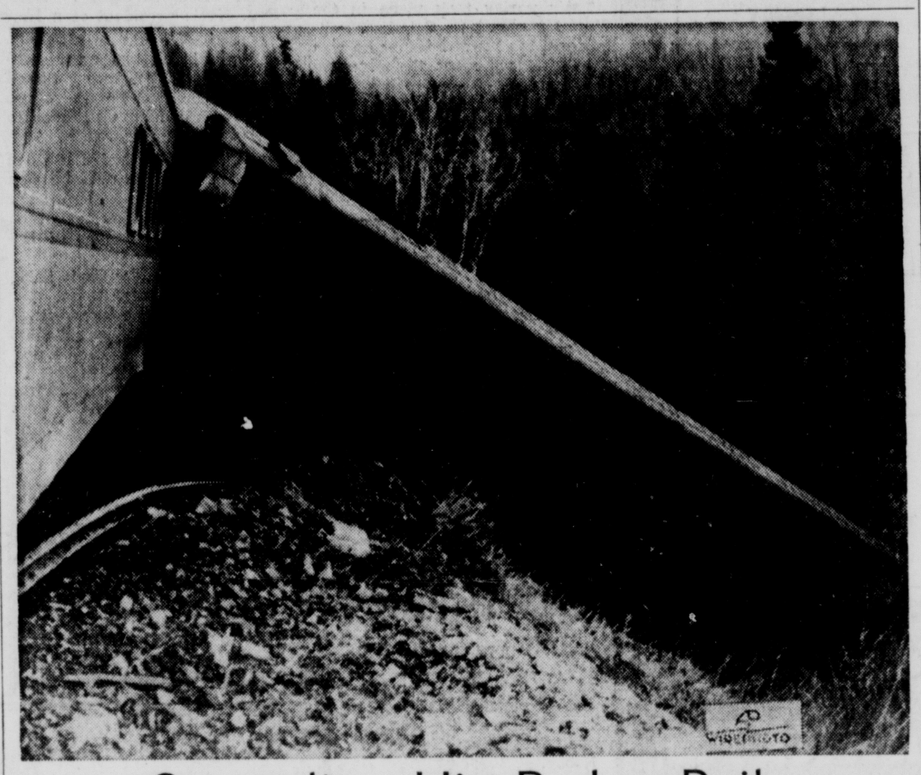
Air Force headquarters said Sabre jets damaged at least two of the MIGs and drove the rest back across the Manchurian frontier before they could interfere with slower Allied fighter-bomber sweeps.

U. S. Charges Russian Recruiter For Spies

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 15. (AP)—The United States has accused a Russian official, fired from the U. N., of trying all last year to recruit agents in the U. S. for a Soviet spy ring, it was learned today.

His role was uncovered, it was reported, when he was caught trying to make a contact with a person outside the U. N. for espionage purposes.

The $8,000-a-year Russian political officer, Nikolai Skvortsov, worked under an assumed name in his activities off the U. N. enclave, the U. S. accusations are reported to have said.



Streamliner Hits Broken Rail

Judge's Ruling Hailed As Blow To Oil Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—A federal judge ruled today that the British - controlled Anglo - Iranian Oil Company enjoys "sovereign immunity" against criminal prosecution in American courts.

Defense lawyers promptly hailed the decision as a blow to a four-months-old grand jury investigation of an alleged world-wide oil monopoly. President Truman had personally ordered the inquiry.

In handing down today's decision, Judge James R. Kirkland said however that the ruling of "sovereign immunity" would not prevent possible civil suits against the Anglo-Iranian company.

Needn't Produce Documents

Specifically, Judge Kirkland held that the company need not produce documents which the Justice Department had sought in connection with the grand jury investigation. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had lodged a formal objection with the State Department against Anglo-Iranian being required to produce the documents.

Twenty other big oil companies, mostly American, British or Dutch controlled, are under fire in the current inquiry.

High Court Rebuffs Companies

In related developments today:

1. The Supreme Court rejected a plea by five major oil companies to review and reverse decisions by two lower federal courts here refusing to dismiss the grand jury which is looking into oil cartels.

2. The Dutch government advised the State Department that it will not permit any document to be removed from The Netherlands for use in the U. S. inquiry.

3. A State Department official said the United States is "in the unhappy position of being in the middle" in the bitter oil dispute between Britain and Iran.

Pearl Bailey Sues Club For $100,000

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 15 (AP)—Pearl Bailey, Negro singer, today filed a $100,000 damage suit against Bill Miller's Riviera, a classy Ft. Lee night club overlooking New York City.

Miss Bailey charges that she was bruised, wounded and suffered serious shock while a patron at the club last September. Several persons, she charges, assaulted her, threw her to the floor and kicked her.

She also charges that her assailants, all unnamed, were sold intoxicating liquors by the club and that as a result they became insulting and prone to violence.

Seven Die In Fire

WINAMAC, Ind., Dec. 15 (AP)—Seven persons—two young mothers and five children—died early today as fire swept through their one-and-a-half story home.

Bodies of the victims were found in an upstairs bedroom. One of the mothers and one of the children burned to death, and the others were suffocated by dense smoke from a defective oil burner.

Lana Divorces Topping, Charging Mental Cruelty

CARSON CITY, Nev., Dec. 15 (AP)—Blonde beauty Lana Turner flew into Nevada today for a quick divorce and then went back to work in Hollywood.

The 31-year-old movie actress charged Millionaire Bob Topping with extreme mental cruelty in the brief moments she testified secretly before District Judge Clark J. Guild here.

She emphatically told reporters at Reno later that "I certainly have no plans for another marriage now."

Ike Confers With McCloy, Dulles

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower, just back from his Korean "look and learn" trip, plunged today into talks on European unity against communism.

Eisenhower conferred with John J. McCloy, former United States high Commissioner in Germany, and John Foster Dulles, who will be his secretary of state.

The nature of the talks indicated the President-elect was weighing whatever plans he might have concerning Korea with the rest of the world picture.

McCloy, who lunched with Eisenhower and Dulles, said "we talked about the steps that might be taken in relation to European unity, a subject we have all been engaged in and interested in for a number of years."

Douglas Favors All-Out War If Peace Moves Fail

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says the United Nations should seek a "political settlement" with Red China and, if that fails, then wage "all-out war."

Summarizing his conclusions drawn from a recent trip to Asia, Justice Douglas said in an article in Look magazine he didn't know whether political settlement with Red China was possible.

Supreme Court Voids Oklahoma Loyalty Oath Law

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Supreme Court knocked out Oklahoma's loyalty oath law today on the ground that it does not provide adequate safeguards for the innocent.

Justice Clark, who wrote the court's 8 to 0 decision, said that under the act association alone determines loyalty — "it matters not whether association existed innocently or knowingly."

"Indiscriminate classification of innocent with knowing activity must fall as an assertion of arbitrary power," Clark said. "It offends the due process of law."

Maryland Law Was Upheld

The Oklahoma law required state officers and employes to swear, among other things, that they had not belonged to any group listed by the U. S. attorney general as subversive or as a Communist-front for five years prior to taking the oath.

In earlier decisions the court had upheld non-Communist oath laws for Los Angeles city employes, New York school teachers and Maryland political candidates. In these cases, Clark commented, persons required to take the oath were given a chance to say they had no knowledge of subversive activity on the part of organizations to which they belonged.

Wire-Tap Evidence Upheld

In other cases today, the court:

1. Ruled for the first time that use of wire-tap evidence in state courts does not violate the Federal Communications Act. The court has ruled in other cases, however, that use of such evidence in state courts does not violate the Fourth Amendment.

2. Refused to interfere with a federal grand jury investigation of an alleged world oil cartel.

Eight Reds Expelled

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Dec. 15 (AP)—French officials expelled eight more Communists, including three Soviet citizens, from French Morocco today in their drive to stamp out nationalist violence.

President Dedicates Shrine For Historic U. S. Documents

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—President Truman dedicated a magnificent new shrine for the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights today and warned that the ideals of liberty they represent are in a world struggle for survival.

Freedom, the President said, is menaced both by Communists and by some who hate communism yet "want the government to regulate matters of the mind and spirit."

Chief Justice Vinson joined the President in hailing the three historic documents as living and vital, not just treasured relics of the past.

"This is a time for sharpening to the glistening point the aspirations which we have for them," Vinson said.

The President and chief justice were the leading figures in a ceremony at which the three hallowed papers were installed formally in a marble, bronze and glass shrine in the National Archives Building.

There they are preserved in sealed cases, under filtered light, to protect them against the ravages of the years. And, if need be, they can be lowered swiftly into what the builders call the world's biggest safe, a 50-ton mass regarded as entirely secure against bombs, fire, water or thievery.

Today, dignitaries of the government and representatives of all the states assembled in the semicircular, domed hall where the documents will be on public display.

Takes Stand Against Any Compromise

State Dept. Says Peace Up To Foe

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—The United States tonight laid down a "no compromise" policy on a Korean truce and served notice it cannot see any purpose in sending fresh plans to the Reds for settling the prisoner of war issue.

"The responsibility for whether there shall be peace in Korea clearly lies with the Chinese Communists and North Korea authorities and their supporters," the State Department said in an official statement after Red China rejected the U. N. plan for ending the Korean War.

The United States statement came as U. N. delegates studied carefully the blunt rejection by Red China of the U. N. Assembly's Korean peace plan and Peiping's stiff counter-proposals.

Red Terms Old Stuff

The terms laid down by the Chinese Reds are identical to those put forward earlier by Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky and rejected by the Assembly in a one-sided vote.

V. K. Krishna Menon, Indian delegate who wrote the Assembly plan, commented that the situation is "not hopeless." He said the Red Chinese reply does not show that they are not willing to negotiate. He would not comment further until he had a chance to examine the 3,000-word cable from all angles.

President Lester B. Pearson of the Assembly received the Communist Chinese reply this morning and began work on a report to the General Assembly. The problem uppermost in the minds of the delegates is:

Ike's Inauguration Awaited

What next?

The indication grew that the U. N. will mark time on the Korean issue until after the inauguration of President-elect Eisenhower. A new United States delegation, headed by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., will take its seat then and the prospects are that the Assembly will resume consideration of the Korean problem in February.

The 15-member Steering Committee of the Assembly recommended today that the overloaded committees keep working through Dec. 23. It left until Thursday a decision on when to reconvene next year and what to do about items left hanging after Dec. 23.

U. S., European Views Collide

PARIS, Dec. 15 (AP)—American demands for more fighting strength in Europe collided head on at the North Atlantic Treaty conference today with the European disposition to take it easier.

American Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of European forces of NATO, walked into the 1952 review meeting of NATO and asked firmly for quick approval of a 428 million dollar defense building program. He got a soft response.

Lord Ismay, NATO secretary general, told correspondents after the meeting that it was quite possible no building program would be approved this session despite the wishes of Ridgway and his staff to get it going with the first good weather.

U. S. Orders British Tanks For NATO Use

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The United States ordered 90 million dollars worth of Centurion tanks, spare parts and ammunition from Britain today for use by nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

A contract was signed in London by Supply Minister Duncan Sandys. The deal was floated under the United States Mutual Security Program.

Guilty When Not Guilty

SPOKANE, Dec. 15 (AP)—William G. Crowley was acquitted last month of stealing a car. But he was sentenced to three years in jail today for theft of a truck.

U. S. Atty. Harvey Erickson said Crowley stole the truck at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, to drive here for his first trial.

Weather Forecast
Mostly sunny, rather windy and slightly warmer today; tomorrow fair.

Pongam is a small, terraced, wind-swept island about 1½ miles off the southwest tip of Koje.

The United Nations Command, in announcing the action Monday, said "orders, warning shots and riot guns had no effect on the organized mob."

"When three waves of fanatical Communists advanced on the guards, individual weapons were brought to bear when their power became necessary to prevent the entire mass from breaking out," the command said.

Unable To Use Tear Gas

The announcement did not further classify the "individual weapons" used, but presumably this included automatic carbines and submachineguns.

It said that wind blowing across prison camp site at the time of the uprising "prevented the use of tear gas to quell the rioters."

After an investigation, Col. C. V. Cadwell, commanding the U. N. prisoner of war command, praised the island commander, Lt. Col. George P. Miller, for "using sound judgment."

"Col. Miller did not use any more force than was necessary," Cadwell said. "He acted promptly. It could have been a very serious situation."

Appeals Court's Chief Judge To Retire Today

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 15 (AP)—Maryland's high court loses its second chief judge within four months when Charles Markell retires tomorrow at the judicially final age of 70.

Markell ends an eight year tour on the Court of Appeals because of the state's automatic retirement law.

Like Ogle Marbury, his predecessor as chief judge, the former corporation and constitutional lawyer from Baltimore bows out with regrets. He concedes retirement is "better too soon than too late."

Wife Sues Peter Lorre

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Actor Peter Lorre was sued for separation today by his wife, Mrs. Ingeborg Lorre. She asked $250 a week temporary alimony.

37 Still Stranded On Ship Hulk

Attempts To Get New Line Aboard Await Daylight

Three Are Rescued From Broken Vessel

LEGHORN, Italy, Tuesday, Dec. 16 (AP)—Efforts to rescue 37 cold and weary American seamen aboard the shattered stern of their refrigerator ship Grommet Reefer were suspended until daylight early today.

Winds of gale force piled the ship upon rocks 200 yards offshore early yesterday and broke her in two. Three of her crew were brought ashore by breeches buoy, but the line parted and the rest of the crew were left huddled precariously on the hulk.

The winds subsided into rainy 20-mile-an-hour squalls after midnight, erasing immediate danger of the ship firmly wedged on the rocks.

Crewmen "All Okay"

Just before midnight, Italian Navy men and U. S. sailors and soldiers from the U. S. base here started their fourth attempt in three hours to get a second cable aboard ship. They failed.

Capt. A. F. White, senior U. S. Naval officer at the American supply base, then ordered operations suspended until 6 a. m.

The ship's first engineer, Karl F. Treudler, said the bulk of the crew still aboard the 3,800-ton vessel had reported by radio they were "all okey." Treudler was one of the only three rescued by breeches buoy from the Grommet before the buoy cable snapped when the stern listed.

Carried Turkey For GIs

When efforts to bring the stranded crewmen in got under way, their situation was described by Capt. White as "desperate and grave."

All but five of the lights aboard the stern—whose brightness until then had given the ship a deceptive air of jaunty confidence—went out just before midnight. Navy men said the lights were cut off apparently in an effort to conserve fuel.

The ship's cargo was 176 tons of perishable foods, including seven tons of turkeys for Christmas dinners for GIs in Italy and Austria.

ROKs Beat Back Chinese Probes

SEOUL, Tuesday, Dec. 16 (AP)—Chinese patrols jabbed at Allied positions on the Kumhwa ridges of Central Korea five times last night and early today. Each time they were driven back.

The Communists began the harrassing attacks at dusk, closing to hand grenade range on Pinpoint Hill, dominant peak on Sniper Ridge. South Korean infantrymen, strongly entrenched on the icy slopes, threw them back.

The Eighth Army reported that the heaviest assault — by about 80 Chinese — was beaten off about midnight.

Only brief skirmishes were reported elsewhere along the front.

The Fifth Air Force reported fighter-bombers destroyed 95 vehicles in smashing at Communist supply arteries last night. Twelve B-29 Superforts struck at troop and supply targets near Pyongyang.

Earlier Monday, clearing weather touched off a series of 10 air battles over extreme Northeastern Korea in the first appearance of Russian-built MIGs in five days.

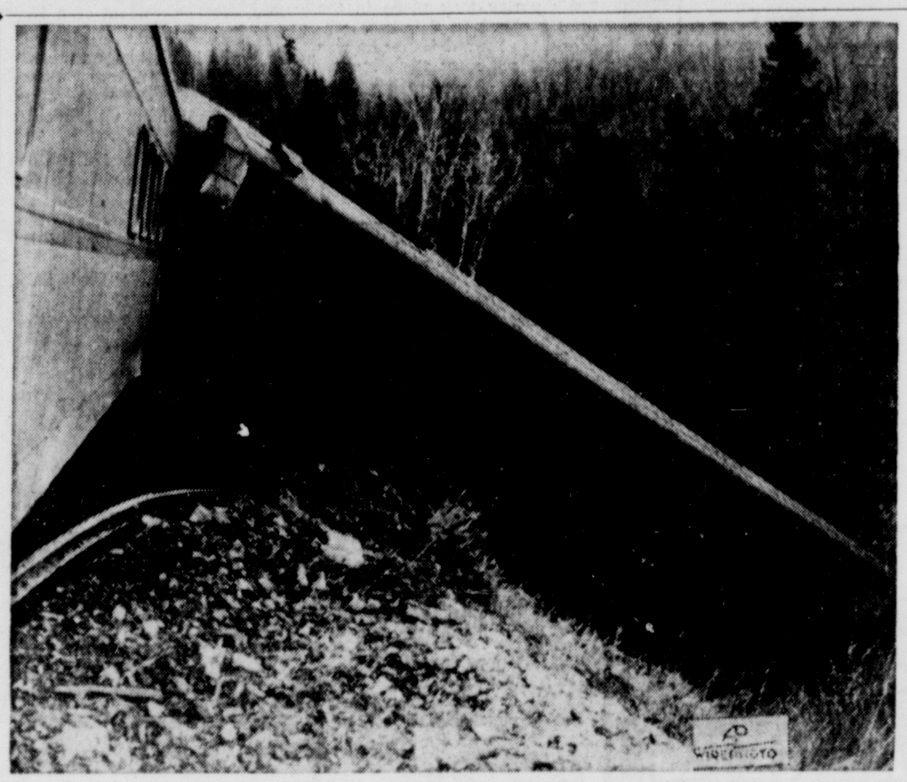
Air Force headquarters said Sabre jets damaged at least two of the MIGs and drove the rest back across the Manchurian frontier before they could interfere with slower Allied fighter-bomber sweeps.

U. S. Charges Russian Recruiter For Spies

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 15. (AP)—The United States has accused a Russian official, fired from the U. N., of trying all last year to recruit agents in the U. S. for a Soviet spy ring, it was learned today.

His role was uncovered, it was reported, when he was caught trying to make a contact with a person outside the U. N. for espionage purposes.

The $8,000-a-year Russian political officer, Nikolai Skvortsov, worked under an assumed name in his activities off the U. N. enclave, the U. S. accusations are reported to have said.



Streamliner Hits Broken Rail

Judge's Ruling Hailed As Blow To Oil Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—A federal judge ruled today that the British - controlled Anglo - Iranian Oil Company enjoys "sovereign immunity" against criminal prosecution in American courts.

Defense lawyers promptly hailed the decision as a blow to a four-months-old grand jury investigation of an alleged world-wide oil monopoly. President Truman had personally ordered the inquiry.

In handing down today's decision, Judge James R. Kirkland said however that the ruling of "sovereign immunity" would not prevent possible civil suits against the Anglo-Iranian company.

Needn't Produce Documents

Specifically, Judge Kirkland held that the company need not produce documents which the Justice Department had sought in connection with the grand jury investigation. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had lodged a formal objection with the State Department against Anglo-Iranian being required to produce the documents.

Twenty other big oil companies, mostly American, British or Dutch controlled, are under fire in the current inquiry.

High Court Rebuffs Companies

In related developments today:

1. The Supreme Court rejected a plea by five major oil companies to review and reverse decisions by two lower federal courts here refusing to dismiss the grand jury which is looking into oil cartels.

2. The Dutch government advised the State Department that it will not permit any document to be removed from The Netherlands for use in the U. S. inquiry.

3. A State Department official said the United States is "in the unhappy position of being in the middle" in the bitter oil dispute between Britain and Iran.

Pearl Bailey Sues Club For $100,000

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 15 (AP)—Pearl Bailey, Negro singer, today filed a $100,000 damage suit against Bill Miller's Riviera, a classy Ft. Lee night club overlooking New York City.

Miss Bailey charges that she was bruised, wounded and suffered serious shock while a patron at the club last September. Several persons, she charges, assaulted her, threw her to the floor and kicked her.

She also charges that her assailants, all unnamed, were sold intoxicating liquors by the club and that as a result they became insulting and prone to violence.

Seven Die In Fire

WINAMAC, Ind., Dec. 15 (AP)—Seven persons—two young mothers and five children—died early today as fire swept through their one-and-a-half story home.

Bodies of the victims were found in an upstairs bedroom. One of the mothers and one of the children burned to death, and the others were suffocated by dense smoke from a defective oil burner.

Lana Divorces Topping, Charging Mental Cruelty

CARSON CITY, Nev., Dec. 15 (AP)—Blonde beauty Lana Turner flew into Nevada today for a quick divorce and then went back to work in Hollywood.

The 31-year-old movie actress charged Millionaire Bob Topping with extreme mental cruelty in the brief moments she testified secretly before District Judge Clark J. Guild here.

She emphatically told reporters at Reno later that "I certainly have no plans for another marriage now."

Ike Confers With McCloy, Dulles

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower, just back from his Korean "look and learn" trip, plunged today into talks on European unity against communism.

Eisenhower conferred with John J. McCloy, former United States high Commissioner in Germany, and John Foster Dulles, who will be his secretary of state.

The nature of the talks indicated the President-elect was weighing whatever plans he might have concerning Korea with the rest of the world picture.

McCloy, who lunched with Eisenhower and Dulles, said "we talked about the steps that might be taken in relation to European unity, a subject we have all been engaged in and interested in for a number of years."

Douglas Favors All-Out War If Peace Moves Fail

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says the United Nations should seek a "political settlement" with Red China and, if that fails, then wage "all-out war."

Summarizing his conclusions drawn from a recent trip to Asia, Justice Douglas said in an article in Look magazine he didn't know whether political settlement with Red China was possible.

President Dedicates Shrine For Historic U. S. Documents

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—President Truman dedicated a magnificent new shrine for the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights today and warned that the ideals of liberty they represent are in a world struggle for survival.

Freedom, the President said, is menaced both by Communists and by some who hate communism yet "want the government to regulate matters of the mind and spirit."

Chief Justice Vinson joined the President in hailing the three historic documents as living and vital, not just treasured relics of the past.

"This is a time for sharpening to the glistening point the aspirations which we have for them," Vinson said.

The President and chief justice were the leading figures in a ceremony at which the three hallowed papers were installed formally in a marble, bronze and glass shrine in the National Archives Building.

There they are preserved in sealed cases, under filtered light, to protect them against the ravages of the years. And, if need be, they can be lowered swiftly into what the builders call the world's biggest safe, a 50-ton mass regarded as entirely secure against bombs, fire, water or thievery.

Today, dignitaries of the government and representatives of all the states assembled in the semi-circular, domed hall where the documents will be on public display.

Supreme Court Voids Oklahoma Loyalty Oath Law

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Supreme Court knocked out Oklahoma's loyalty oath law today on the ground that it does not provide adequate safeguards for the innocent.

Justice Clark, who wrote the court's 8 to 0 decision, said that under the act association alone determines loyalty — "it matters not whether association existed innocently or knowingly."

"Indiscriminate classification of innocent with knowing activity must fall as an assertion of arbitrary power," Clark said. "It offends the due process of law."

Maryland Law Was Upheld

The Oklahoma law required state officers and employes to swear, among other things, that they had not belonged to any group listed by the U. S. attorney general as subversive or as a Communist-front for five years prior to taking the oath.

In earlier decisions the court had upheld non-Communist oath laws for Los Angeles city employes, New York school teachers and Maryland political candidates. In these cases, Clark commented, persons required to take the oath were given a chance to say they had no knowledge of subversive activity on the part of organizations to which they belonged.

Wire-Tap Evidence Upheld

In other cases today, the court:

1. Ruled for the first time that use of wire-tap evidence in state courts does not violate the Federal Communications Act. The court has ruled in other cases, however, that use of such evidence in state courts does not violate the Fourth Amendment.

2. Refused to interfere with a federal grand jury investigation of an alleged world oil cartel.

Eight Reds Expelled

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Dec. 15 (AP)—French officials expelled eight more Communists, including three Soviet citizens, from French Morocco today in their drive to stamp out nationalist violence.

Takes Stand Against Any Compromise

State Dept. Says Peace Up To Foe

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—The United States tonight laid down a "no compromise" policy on a Korean truce and served notice it cannot see any purpose in sending fresh plans to the Reds for settling the prisoner of war issue.

"The responsibility for whether there shall be peace in Korea clearly lies with the Chinese Communists and North Korea authorities and their supporters," the State Department said in an official statement after Red China rejected the U. N. plan for ending the Korean War.

The United States statement came as U. N. delegates studied carefully the blunt rejection by Red China of the U. N. Assembly's Korean peace plan and Peiping's stiff counter-proposals.

Red Terms Old Stuff

The terms laid down by the Chinese Reds are identical to those put forward earlier by Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky and rejected by the Assembly in a one-sided vote.

V. K. Krishna Menon, Indian delegate who wrote the Assembly plan, commented that the situation is "not hopeless." He said the Red Chinese reply does not show that they are not willing to negotiate. He would not comment further until he had a chance to examine the 3,000-word cable from all angles.

President Lester B. Pearson of the Assembly received the Communist Chinese reply this morning and began work on a report to the General Assembly. The problem uppermost in the minds of the delegates is:

Ike's Inauguration Awaited

What next?

The indication grew that the U. N. will mark time on the Korean issue until after the inauguration of President-elect Eisenhower. A new United States delegation, headed by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., will take its seat then and the prospects are that the Assembly will resume consideration of the Korean problem in February.

The 15-member Steering Committee of the Assembly recommended today that the overloaded committees keep working through Dec. 23. It left until Thursday a decision on when to reconvene next year and what to do about items left hanging after Dec. 23.

U. S., European Views Collide

PARIS, Dec. 15 (AP) — American demands for more fighting strength in Europe collided head on at the North Atlantic Treaty conference today with the European disposition to take it easier.

American Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of European forces of NATO, walked into the 1952 review meeting of NATO and asked firmly for quick approval of a 428 million dollar defense building program. He got a soft response.

Lord Ismay, NATO secretary general, told correspondents after the meeting that it was quite possible no building program would be approved this session despite the wishes of Ridgway and his staff to get it going with the first good weather.

U. S. Orders British Tanks For NATO Use

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP) — The United States ordered 90 million dollars worth of Centurion tanks, spare parts and ammunition from Britain today for use by nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

A contract was signed in London by Supply Minister Duncan Sandys. The deal was floated under the United States Mutual Security Program.

Guilty When Not Guilty

SPOKANE, Dec. 15 (AP)—William G. Crowley was acquitted last month of stealing a car. But he was sentenced to three years in jail today for theft of a truck.

U. S. Atty. Harvey Erickson said Crowley stole the truck at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, to drive here for his first trial.

Accused Hired Killer Held 'In Safekeeping' By Police

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15 (AP) — A man accused of hiring himself out as a "hammer killer" for $5,000 was held in a secret hiding place today.

He was Victor L. Stoner, 24, San Diego truck driver. Dist. Atty. Thomas C. Lynch said Stoner related that Carl E. Brown, 43, San Francisco attorney, hired him to kill Brown's wife, Florence, 46, the night of Oct. 6.

Brown's wealthy bride of a few months barely survived the attack which occurred in her apartment.

Dist. Atty. Lynch and Chief of Inspectors James English would say only that Stoner was "in safekeeping."

Stoner was arrested in Spokane and was flown here yesterday.

Brown and Joe Tenner, 54, of San Francisco, described as a go-between, were held at City Prison, booked for conspiracy to commit murder, a non-bailable charge.

McKeldin Meets 'King Of Hoboes'

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin, a man who never shuns a chance to talk, today met the King of the Hoboes, a traveling man named Sam H. Cole who never shuns a chance either.

Their parley took place in the State House, where Cole had waited for three hours because he was determined to meet the governor of Maryland.

Cole left with a commission as "honorary citizen," given under the governor's hand and the gilt Great Seal of Maryland. Also, for No. 118 in his collection of scrapbooks, an autographed photo of McKeldin pinning a black-eyed susan on President-elect Eisenhower.

McKeldin was left with the gracious farewells of a man he couldn't talk out and the description as "dynamic, christian gentleman."

Cole was born in Hagerstown 62 years ago last July 27. He expects to retire there some day.

His title of "King," Cole said, was conferred by the International Hobo Brotherhood, which he founded; the Hobo Fellowship of America and Tourists Union No. 63 of Britt, Ia.

Hoboken Mayor Target At Probe

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—The mayor of Hoboken, N. J., was described today as a power behind the New Jersey waterfront—a jungle of shakedown artists, loan sharks and strongarm men.

Witnesses before a state crime hearing testified that Mayor Fred N. De Sapio and his police and fire commissioner, Michael Borelli, swept longshoremen from the docks and paid off political pals with their jobs.

Their straw boss on the piers, according to the testimony, was Edward J. Florio, 57, a shifty, shady official of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association. He is president of a New Jersey ILA local.

De Sapio, in his turn on the witness stand, blustered and fumed but firmly insisted he didn't use the docks as a dumping ground to pay off political debts.

His testimony backed and filled so much that Crime Commission Chairman Joseph M. Proskauer finally snorted in disgust:

"And you're the mayor of Hoboken."

At another point, De Sapio barked angrily:

"Let's get ourselves straight. I didn't come here to be ridiculed by the chairman or anyone else."

GI Must Stand Trial On Abduction Charge

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 15. (AP)—A U. S. Army court-martial today ruled that Pvt. Eugene R. Walters is sane and must stand trial on charges of abducting and molesting an American high school girl.

Lt. Col. Alva E. Miller of El Paso, Tex., an Army psychiatrist, testified that Walters was "sane and responsible" when he allegedly seized red-haired Mamie Ruth Shelton, 18, and held her prisoner in a car at the point of a gun while he made indecent advances to her.

Rep. Martin Would Stress Legislation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., slated to be the next speaker of the House said today he thought the 83rd Congress should put the emphasis on legislation rather than investigation.

"The people want us to enact a constructive legislative program," he said in an interview.

He added that he was in favor of continuing House investigations of the Justice and Treasury Departments and the Internal Revenue Bureau.

For the new session, Martin recommended that taxes be reduced if possible. A study of government income and spending will have to come first, though, he said.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (INS)—Big Bill Gilliam, of Orange, N. J., avenged three previous losses to Bob Baker, of Pittsburgh, tonight by scoring a split decision victory in a slow 10-rounder between the two heavyweights at eastern parkway arena.

Police Solve Burglary At Midland Garage

The burglary of Spicer's Garage at Midland sometime late Thursday night or early Friday morning has been solved by State Police.

Four youths, three of whom have been involved in previous infractions of the law, were picked up by Trooper William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police here, and Deputy Sheriff William "Scotty" Orr Saturday morning at their homes.

Three of the youths are 16 years of age and two of them were released last summer after serving a year in the State Training School for Boys. One of the quartet has never been involved in law violations, according to Trooper Baker.

The State Police officer went to the Spicer Garage Saturday morning and after checking the premises and viewing a window which the youths broke out to gain entrance he decided the modus operandi was familiar.

He went to the homes of the two boys who were sentenced to the State Training School on conviction for breaking and entering. They reside in the Klondyke section and Trooper Baker found part of the loot taken in the burglary at their homes.

Loot included seven hunting knives, tires, billfolds, candy, chewing gum, ice cream and other merchandise. Three of the youths are being held in the county jail and the fourth is detained at the detention room at the Allegany County Infirmary. He is only 15.

Odd Fellows Plan Children's Party

Plans were completed at a meeting Friday night for the annual Christmas party for children sponsored each year by Chosen Friends Lodge 34, IOOF.

The party will be held at Odd Fellows Temple, South Mechanic Street Friday at 7:30 p. m. A program of entertainment consisting of dance routines by Mary Katherine Steckman Dance Studio, Christmas movies shown by Carl Keller and a visit from Santa Claus impersonated by William Short, has been arranged.

Edmund S. Burke Appointed To State GOP Committee

Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company here, was appointed Saturday to one of two state Republican committees set up "to revitalize the party."

Burke, who resides at 736 Washington Street, was named to a group which will establish a permanent office, hire a staff and raise the money for it.

Serving with him will be Robert O. Bonnell, Baltimore, chairman; Mrs. Emmert Bowlus of Frederick. George Warner of Silver Spring, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Thomas B. D. Mudd, LaPlata, and others.

Eldred Rinehart, Maryland's GOP chairman, said "The Republicans in Maryland look forward to cooperating very closely with the administration of President-Elect Eisenhower."

"We shall equip ourselves to effectively carry out the responsibilities assigned us."

His statement reflected the fact that for the first time within the memory of most Marylanders, the Republicans now hold the majority of top elective offices in the state.

"In order that our party may assume the responsibilities and obligations which accompany winning of the election, we must establish permanent offices," Rinehart said.

Stanley Scherr, chief traffic court magistrate in Baltimore and confidante of Gov. McKeldin, was selected to head a committee which will draft a new constitution and by-laws for the party.

Rinehart pointed out that they have not been overhauled since 1905.

Working with Scherr will be, among others, Omer Kaylor Jr., of Hagerstown, State Senator Stanford Hoff of Westminster, Frank Liller Jr., of Hyattsville, Maxwell Sols of Baltimore, and Richard I. Galland of Towson, who will be secretary.

HAGER'S — Large bananas, 13c pound. Christmas oranges, 49c bag. Fancy tangerines, dozens - bags - crates. Tractor-trailer loads. Quantity, quality, low prices — open evenings.

Politics And Science

President Juan D. Peron was talking mighty big about atomic energy last July. Argentina, he said, had found a cheap way of providing controlled atomic energy.

When scientists all over the world scoffed, Peron retorted with a denunciation of capitalism, the United States and "scientific lackeys."

Since then nothing more has been heard about this alleged development, though jokes about it were current in Buenos Aires cafes when no gaucho cops were in sight. After Dr. Ronald Richter, the Austrian who headed the Peronist atomic project, appeared with a small bandage on his hand, a wag remarked that he must have been wounded by the explosion of one of his atomic bombs.

Now it is reported that the project has been abandoned, that the 300 scientists, engineers and other workers on it have new jobs, and that Richter has been jailed for descacato—meaning lese majeste, or, more simply, making a sucker out of Peron.

Evidently the Argentine caudillo, like many another dictator, had become so convinced of his own infallibility that he wasn't afraid to make an international boast on a subject about which he knew nothing. But his real mistake was that, like Hitler and Stalin, he tried to mix science and politics.

This mixing of the non-mixable has gone so far that in Russia today it is not the scientists but the commissars who decide what is truth and what is nonsense in, for example, genetics. Lysenko, a practical agricultural experimenter ignorant of genetic theory, heads all genetic work. Worse still, all Soviet geneticists are forced to kowtow to his stupidities or suffer severe penalties.

But Lysenko's time may come. What is the Russian for descacato?

Those Arab Refugees

The plight of the so-called Arab refugees represents a vicious circle. Little can be done for them as long as Israeli-Arab relations stay at an impasse, yet one reason, perhaps the main reason, for that impasse is the disagreement on what to do about the refugees.

Almost a million Arabs who left Palestine after 1946 are now living on a mere subsistence level in restricted areas of certain of the Arab states. Some 850,000 of them are on the relief rolls of a UN agency set up on their behalf—470,000 (in round numbers), in Jordan, 205,000 in the Gaza area of Egypt, 105,000 in Lebanon, 85,000 in Syria.

The Arabs say these refugees were forced out of Palestine by Israeli pressure, the Israelis say they pulled out voluntarily because of Arab propaganda. The Arab League calls the refugees too numerous to be absorbed into Arab states, the Tel Aviv government calls them too numerous to be absorbed into Israel, beset as it is by a million or so Jewish immigrants from other lands, including Arab lands, since 1947.

The Arabs insist that Israel compensate the refugees on an individual basis for the property they left behind them. Israel insists that any total compensation due be reduced by its own claims for war damages inflicted by Arab troops and for Jewish-owned property held by the Arabs in Arab states.

The Arabs say that if the boundaries of Israel were reduced to the lines proposed by the UN delimiting commission in 1947, land would be available for resettling the refugees. Israel, calling its present boundaries just and proper, charges the Arab League with keeping the refugees in a miserable status so that it can use them for political bargaining.

Unconquered Everest

The Swiss mountain climbers and their Nepalese companions have failed to reach the summit of Mt. Everest. But they came closer than anybody else.

The old name of the highest mountain is Chomolungma, the goddess-mother, on whose white altar many human sacrifices have died. The Chinese Communists, who have not conquered it, now claim it belongs to them as part of Tibet, though it actually lies partly in Nepal. But no secret police appeared to harass the climbers. Climbing Everest is a man's job.

There's the low atmospheric pressure, for one thing. At an altitude of three miles many men develop nosebleeds, headaches or nausea. At three and a half miles the pressure is only half of what it is at sea level. The symptoms become worse and worse. Oxygen bottles may prevent slow suffocation, but the human body can accustom itself only partly to the low pressures. And Everest reaches to 29,002 feet—five and one-half miles—above sea level.

The intense cold, aggravated by bone-chilling winds, is another hazard. Fifty below is merely average. Such conditions do things to men's bodies, their vision, their hearing, their metabolism. Eternal snows may blind them. The sun's actinic rays become dangerously strong in the thin air. Muscles falter and reflexes fall out of phase. A parched throat becomes a real danger.

The brave and stubborn men who refuse to surrender to unconquered Everest succeed in getting away from it all, and they plod through scenery of impressive and terrible splendor.

Helicopter Commuting

Spectacular successes scored in Korea by helicopters as rescue craft and aerial ambulances have spurred production and development of these ungainly, though safe and efficient, rotor-winged vehicles.

The operational experience gained also has added supporting data to predictions that helicopters will play an increasingly important role in commercial transportation. A start was made with inauguration of helicopter mail service in Los Angeles and Chicago.

The helicopter has inherent assets as a transportation medium. It is capable of flying low and slow, even to the point of hovering, with all that these characteristics imply in terms of safety. Helicopters also transcend the clutter and delay of surface vehicle travel prevalent in most areas today.

The Port of New York Authority took cognizance of the situation over a year ago and engaged four consultants to make a comprehensive study of helicopter service probabilities. That study has been completed, at a cost to the PA of $70,000.

While the consultants prophesy expanding helicopter taxi and commuting service in the New York metropolitan area over the next 20 years, the report stresses the trend will be contingent upon lowering of helicopter operating costs and the degree of assistance rendered by the government, particularly in the granting of subsidies such as made possible the airline service of today.

Heat As A Remedy

There is nothing like a hot water bag or an electric heating pad to soothe an aching back or a stiff neck. Heat is what counts because it offers relaxation and relieves muscle spasm. This time honored remedy probably has been used by man since he learned to make fire.

At present, heat is utilized extensively in treating painful disorders, especially those of muscular or arthritic origin. Sister Kenny's hot packs in the management of polio made history because of their beneficial effect upon spasm. Most physical therapists apply heat in one form or another before massage or manipulation because it induces much needed relaxation. Gymnasiums are filled with athlets having their sore arms or legs baked out under a lamp or in a whirlpool bath.

To the novice heat is heat but to the specialist there are important differences in the varieties of methods now in use. Radiant heat is a form of infra-red energy. Heat is applied by conduction in that it is transferred by direct contact from the warmer to the cooler surface and include many home methods of heating, as with bricks, sandbags, irons, electric pads, compresses, and packs. Infra-red rays are chiefly heat rays; when directed toward the skin they have no magic influence but merely impart a sensation of warmth. If employed in a lamp, heat is conveyed by convection via air. Most of the machines are lamps with carbon or tungsten filament bulbs reinforced with a suitable reflecting surface. The nonluminous types consist of metal coils or plates which glow a dull red when heated. It is a relatively slow method of heating but is suitable for most surface inflammations.

On the other hand, when it is desirable to force heat into deeper tissues the conversion methods are preferred. Here energy is converted into heat through high frequency alternating currents. Furthermore, heat stems from the resistance offered by the tissues to the passage of the electric current, caused by the friction of the electrons as they reverberate back and forth during their rapid oscillations.

There are three types: long wave, or conventional diathermy; short wave, now the most popular of this variety; microwave diathermy, a relative newcomer. Long and short wave diathermy offers rapid and deep penetration and the procedure is easy and convenient to use. Microwave is comparable to a radar system and is said to produce more concentrated and greater penetration of heat. A marked increase in blood flow follows and the muscles ½ inch below the surface are warmed 2 to 5 degrees C.

Ultrasonic energy is the most recent addition to thermotherapy. These waves actually are sound waves but they cannot be perceived by the human ear because their frequency is beyond 20,000 cycles. Some of these machines employ a frequency in excess of 1 million cycles per second. Many claims have been made for this mode of treatment but authorities still consider the procedure experimental.

Other methods of heat therapy include fever cabinets, hot moist air, and paraffin baths. Hot baths and all hydrotherapeutic measures fall into this category, including the whirlpool bath, therapeutic tanks and pools, plus the contrast bath. It is a tremendous field.

DENTURE AGE

H. Y. writes: What is the usual age at which dentures are needed?

REPLY

I have no statistics along this line. A dentist friend of mine made a full set of detures for a 16-year-old girl, but the majority of candidates are much older. There is a good possibility that the decade between 50 and 60 is the denture age.

PNEUMONIAS

F. T. writes: Is virus pneumonia more serious than old fashioned pneumonia?

REPLY

Prior to the discovery of the sulfonamides and penicillin, the older type of pneumonia was more serious; in some forms, one of every three died. Now that the bacterial pneumonias are tamed, the virus is more serious.

ADRENAL INSUFFICIENCY

J. H. writes: I have Addison's disease and my doctor tells me not to use salt. Can you explain why?

REPLY

In Addison's disease, there is a disturbance of that part of the adrenal gland that regulates mineral metabolism. Prior to the advent of our modern hormones, the sufferer usually was given large amounts of salt and carborydrates. If you are receiving one of the hormones the physician is watching your salt intake carefully because the amount must be regulated to prevent the retention of sodium in the tissues.

SMOKING AND ASTHMA

G. T. writes: Does smoking make asthma worse?

REPLY

Yes, because it has an irritating effect on the mucous membrane of the bronchi.

Truman Press Conference

DREW PEARSON on

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gen. MacArthur Has Been Lonesome Since Elections; His Speech About Korea Prompted By Desire To Get Back In Eisenhower Picture

WASHINGTON—It was probably a mixture of nostalgic loneliness plus just a bit of personal pique that caused the big furore over MacArthur and Eisenhower, the Truman press conference, and the MacArthur speech that he knew the way out in Korea.

To understand it you have to go back to the days when a young major occupied a desk in the extreme outer office of the chief of staff in the old State, War and Navy Building in Washington. The chief of staff in those days was Douglas MacArthur, about 50 years old, dynamic, straight as a ramrod and given to pacing up and down his office nervously toying with a Japanese fan.

The young officer about three offices removed was Maj. Dwight Eisenhower, who wrote brilliant speeches for the chief of staff, but otherwise was completely overshadowed by the vibrant-voiced general who dominated the War Department.

That was in 1932. The years passed. The pendulum of fate swung back and forth to change the positions of these two.

Major Eisenhower went to the Philippines with the general, helped him train the Philippine constabulary, differed with him, was shipped home. Reasons for the friction vary. Some Filipinos say they found the major was doing the real planning for Philippine defense, figured they could pay the major, save the money they were paying the general. Naturally the general got sore.

At any rate, the pendulum of fate, still swinging, put the major, now a major general, in command in North Africa, then in Europe. It was up to him to get as many troops, as many supplies as possible. A dynamic personality, Winston Churchill, backed him. Naturally the troops and supplies he got lessened those for his old commanding general in the Far East. So the young major, now a full-fledged general, won his European part of the war first.

Three years passed, an election came up, and some Republicans talked about drafting the old general, now in Tokyo. Many Democrats also talked about drafting the young major, now president of a university. However he said no.

But various publishers, visiting Tokyo, had so buttered up the old general that Gen. Bob Eichelberger, then his deputy commander, tells how on July 4, 1948, just before the Republican convention in Philadelphia, he gave the general the review of his life—Army, Navy, WAVES, WAC—polished up with lick and spittle. And the old general stood erect, straight-as-a-ramrod, his arm rigidly at salute, talking out of the side of his mouth to Eichelberger.

"They're not going to take Dewey," said the old general, his eyes fixed on the parade but not really watching it. "The leaders don't like him. And they're not going to take Taft. He hasn't got enough sex appeal. Warren of California won't go with Wall Street. And Vandenberg's got a bad heart.

"So when it's all over they're going to have to come back to me," concluded the old general. "That's their only alternative—if they want to win."

"Look at those WACS, general," said Eichelberger, trying to get his chief's mind off politics. "You know WACS look different going than they do coming."

Disappointment In Philadelphia

But the old general was interested only in what happened when the Republicans convened in Philadelphia. And he told Eichelberger to get ready to take over in Tokyo.

In Philadelphia next week, "MacArthur Headquarters" was be-decked with banners, its tables stacked with literature. But few came to read the literature, and fewer voted for him when the roll was called on the convention floor.

So swung the pendulum of fate.

It continued to swing. Two years passed. Came the Korean War. Things did not go well for the old general. The victory which the American people expected overnight, the quick-and-easy humbling of Communist forces, did not come. Regardless of who was to blame, there were bitter moments for the old general and for the American public.

Politics got into the act. Republican leaders in Washington began using the old general. He began playing into their hands. Finally he was ordered home.

Remarked the young major, now a five-star general in Europe: "When you put on the uniform there are certain inhibitions you accept."

A year later, he came home to run for President, despite a warning from the old general in Lansing, Mich., that no military man should serve in the White House. And despite the old general's keynote speech, calculated to stop him, the young major was nominated.

Five Minutes' Walk

As the pendulum swung further and as it looked like a close race on November 4, certain friends approached the old general urging him to endorse the young major who once sat in his outer office and who was now running for President. No less than the ex-President of the United States approached him; and Winthrop Aldrich, head of the Chase Bank, and Gen. George Kenny, his old air commander in the South Pacific.

"Look, boss," said Kenny, "it's only a five-minute walk from here to Eisenhower's suite in the Commodore Hotel."

"And it's only a five-minute walk from the Commodore here," replied the old general.

So November 4 came, and the man whom the old general still thinks of as a young major, won. He won even without the endorsement of his old commander, without the margin of votes his commander might have swung to him.

Sitting alone in the Waldorf Tower since then, the old general has had plenty of time to think. For no matter who you are or what you say, it's not easy just to fade away.

And the real reason for the old general's speech suggesting a way out in Korea—if only he were consulted—was that the old general wanted to shake hands again with the young major who once sat writing speeches in the extreme outer office of the General Staff suite of the old State, War, and Navy Building. For the truth is that the old general has been lonesome.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Invisible government — where deals and fixes are made that do not involve pecuniary gain for individuals or bribery of officials but which result in vast financial benefits being improperly conferred on economic groups—has flourished under the Truman administration.

If the full story were uncovered as to what has been happening behind the scenes from the time that President Truman two years ago appointed his Wage and Stabilization Boards allegedly to control prices and stabilize salaries, the nation would be shocked at a type of corruption which has come to be accepted as "normal."

Plenty of criticism is heard when somebody in business contributes to somebody's campaign fund after election but the shameful relationships that operate constantly between union labor groups and goverment boards that do their bidding haven't aroused a ripple of comment from the so-called "liberals" who pride themselves on their virtuous interest in governmental ethics.

Contract Renewals Due

Today the CIO is calling for decontrols mostly because it has reached the end of the road of favoritism by governmental boards and thinks it can do better by negotiation with management.

The AFL wants to see controls maintained. It is rightly worried about consumer prices.

A large number of important labor contracts involving many hundreds of thousands of workers are up for renewal in a few months. Not being content to wait for the Eisenhower administration to take office and formulate an anti-inflation policy, the CIO and many business groups want controls ended at once. Management organizations have begun to boycott the wage boards by refusing to encourage businessmen to accept appointments on regional or national boards. Not long ago labor union leaders boycotted the same boards because it was desired to influence the administration to take over not only the handling of wages but disputes of union shops and other matters which usually would be handled under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Neither management nor labor groups have acted in the public interest. They probably cannot because of their overriding material interest. It is understandable how each side has been displeased with the evolution of governmental policy in dealing with wage controls but the real villain in the piece is the administration with its clandestine deals with labor. President Truman made a deal with the late Phil Murray in December 1951 promising him not to use the Taft-Hartley Act and this resulted in the most costly steel strike in history. Likewise just before the recent election the Wage Stabilization Board approved a $1.50 a day increase for coal miners but John L. Lewis started a strike that might have cost the Democratic party not only the electoral votes of West Virginia, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana and other states where the coal-miner vote sometimes holds the balance of power but also the seats of Democratic members of Congress previously favorable to labor. Mr. Truman made a deal through one of his emissaries and Mr. Lewis called off the strike a few days before the election. West Virginia went Democratic.

Truman Came Through

The pay-off came just the same after the election when the Wage Stabilization Board was overruled by the President himself so as to grant the $1.90 a day which Lewis wanted. So sure was Mr. Lewis that his deal would be put through after election that he went off for a vacation to South America last month sublimely indifferent. This isn't the way a big labor union leader usually treats an unsettled issue. Mr. Truman came through and approved the increase but there also came a wave of resignations from members of the wage boards throughout the country.

It will be suggested that maybe there shouldn't be any labor or industry members on these boards at all but simply public members. This would be excellent if public members could be chosen who were really disinterested. An important official of the government—not connected previously either with labor or business but thoroughly familiar with the situation

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON

While we were lost in the turmoil of our election, a new French ambassador, the able Louis Joxe, presented his letters of credence in Moscow. To his complete astonishment, Joxe immediately received an unprecedented invitation to call on Marshal Stalin.

Stalin, without saying much of substance, welcomed Joxe to Moscow with effusive friendliness, strongly emphasizing the historic ties between France and Russia. In the atmosphere thus carefully created, Joxe was then exposed to a further conversation with the Soviet foreign minister, Andrei Vishinsky. After many a sad reference to the sad state of the world, and especially to the sad state of Germany, Vishinsky strongly hinted that France and Russia ought to go into a quiet corner together, and talk about their common problems.

Joxe naturally considered this overture so important that he returned at once to Paris to seek new instructions. Obviously, accepting Vishinsky's hinted invitation would have one major and immediate consequence. The official Anglo-Franco-American policy for Germany, notably including the plan for German divisions within a European army, would be hopelessly disrupted. Equally obviously, however, no such Soviet invitation, even if vague and formless, could be thoughtlessly turned down.

Within the French government a substantial minority (largely composed, of course, of men who dislike the official German policy) strongly advocated a favorable response to the Vishinsky overture. The majority successfully argued, however, that the united front of the Western nations could not be lightly sacrificed in such a manner. So Joxe returned to Moscow again with instructions to maintain a poker face, and to continue to act in concert with his American and British colleagues.

Part Of Bigger Pattern

This important but hitherto undisclosed episode of recent diplomatic history is a good introduction to the present report, because Joxe's experience with Stalin and Vishinsky was part of a much larger pattern. So was the abrupt dismissal of our own ambassador to Moscow, George Kennan, shortly after the Joxe episode. So are such little things as the Soviet rule that American embassy cars in Moscow cannot take left turns, whereas British cars can; and so are such big things as Korea and the recent Congress of the Russian Communist party.

What, then, is this pattern, which may be called Stalin's new plan? It has, broadly speaking, two parts. On the one hand, the Kremlin's expansive pressure is being maintained, at full strength, in the Far East. Lenin long ago declared that for world communism, the real road to Paris and London led through Peking and the colonial nations of the Orient. If the passage of time brings the Kremlin an oriental victory—in Indo-China, for example—the strategic and political consequences will be overwhelming, and will extend from Asia to Europe.

But this fact is very far from clearly understood in such countries as France and Britain, where difficulties at home tend to make even the wisest men forget more remote dangers. While the pressure in the Far East is being maintained, the pressure in Europe has been markedly relaxed. Soviet bullying, unfortunately, has usually been the main stimulus to Western unity. The second part of the Soviet pattern is to withhold this stimulus, and to encourage a break in the unity of the West by all possible means.

Here, in some ways the Kremlin has an almost better bet than in the Far East. One can point to a whole series of rocks on which the frail craft of Western unity can all too easily founder.

Long, Depressing List

There is Korea; there is Indo-China; there is Iran. There is an ugly group of emerging problems in Africa. There is a crisis in NATO military planning. There is the possibility that France or Germany will not vote the European army, and will thus leave the defense of Western Europe without the keystone of the arch—the planned 12 German divisions. There is the danger—perhaps the most worrying of all—that a mild American recession will touch off a major European depression with all the terrible political and social consequences that major depressions always bring.

Truly, the list is as long as it is depressing; and each item on the list is entirely capable of plunging the Western Allies into a chaos of mutual recrimination, disloyalty and devil-take-the-hindmost tactics. This list, moveover, is the unhappy measure of President-elect-Eisenhower's new responsibilities. He will need all the support, all the sympathy, all the understanding, that the country and the Congress can give him.

Such is the dark side of the balance sheet, as it appears today, to one just returned from a brief but intensive inquiry abroad. Fortunately what is good, healthy and hopeful more the less outweighs what is dark and ominous. A subsequent report will suggest how much Gen. Eisenhower can accomplish, if he attacks his heavy task with a good heart and the power of the United States behind him.

These Days

No Jazz For Joe

In a monolithic world, even jazz becomes a political problem. Jazz is a kind of syncopated music which some people like to hear and have a right to under the Constitution. It is reputed to have been invented in New Orleans and its greatest exponent, I am told, is William C. Handy, one of the finest human beings I have ever encountered. Irving Berlin wrote "Alexander's Ragtime Band" in this mood when we were all younger, and there was a band called Jellyroll Morton's Red Hot Peppers.

However, I discover that M. Sokolsky, who must be a music commissar in Soviet Russia, and no relative of mine for all I know, has declared jazz condemned. He writes a long article on the subject which I have just read. In the United States anybody can like any kind of music from a hurdy-gurdy to Bach, Beethoven and Brahms without offending the government. True, Mr. Truman wrote a letter on the subject once, but no laws were broken. In Soviet Russia, it is different: jazz is condemned.

Says the music commissar, M. Sokolsky:

"What, indeed, is less 'in harmony' with our music, our Soviet songs, the Soviet people's great wealth of folklore, than a saxophone throbbing like an aching tooth or howling away, than trombones roaring deafeningly, than muted trumpets squealing, or the monotonous, dull thump of the whole family of percussion instruments relentlessly hammering into the listeners' consciousness the mechanically repetitious rhythms of fox trot or rhumba?

"No! We are resolutely opposed to the artificial combination of our music with the jazz band; those who try to squeeze our music into jazz form by main force mutilate and mangle it."

It just goes to show that no two races of man can agree on anything. I was reading in this article a quotation from the original American-hater, Maxim Gorky, and I was sure what he was describing was a symphony of Shostakovich as conducted by Leonard Bernstein:

"Suddenly the thoughtful silence is broken by the full beat of an idiotic drumstick—one, two, three, 10, 20 drumbeats and then, like a lump of mud dropped into clear, transparent water, there comes a wild shrieking, whistling, roaring, howling and banging; inhuman voices, suggestive of a horse's neighing, burst forth; there is the grunting of brass pigs, the braying of donkeys, the croaking of frogs a-wooing; all this outrageous chaos of mad sound follows a barely perceptible rhythm; and after listening for a minute or two to these wails one involuntarily begins to imagine that an orchestra of madmen is performing."

But no! This is not Shostakovich; it is a description of American jazz. Gorky probably never heard of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," or the glorious music of "Porgy and Bess." For him, it is enough that jazz was made in America for it to be hated. Here is the punch line that tells the story:

"Need one mention to that jazz in the U.S.A. is not just 'art,' but, like the Hollywood 'industry,' a business, an article of export. They call jazz there 'the music of big business.' The U.S.A. 'bestows upon' the Marshallized countries tens of millions of jazz records, along with Hollywood's trash. There is double profit and a double purpose in this: to dispose of unsold stocks and by the scrunch and squeal and roar of senseless, stupefying jazz 'music' to deaden, to kill the man in men, to turn them into cannon fodder. Jazz is the music of enslavement of the spirit. . ."

In other words, jazz has politics, just as coarse grains and rubber have politics. There is so much politics in this world today that it has become a sickening treacle that pervades our lives. The British defend selling rubber to Stalin because they get coarse grains from him. They can also get coarse grains from the United States or Canada where they are plentiful but non-political. The British prefer political coarse grains, just as the Labor party made a fetish of political peanuts in Africa.

I wonder if Stalin will one day condemn beer, Rhine wine and Burgundies and force all his slaves to drink vodka. This could be regarded as a political interpretation of the economics of a hangover and might be brought before the General Assembly of the United Nations as an example of genocide. When politics is the ruler, taste must fade on the vine.

Politics And Science

President Juan D. Peron was talking mighty big about atomic energy last July. Argentina, he said, had found a cheap way of providing controlled atomic energy.

When scientists all over the world scoffed, Peron retorted with a denunciation of capitalism, the United States and "scientific lackeys."

Since then nothing more has been heard about this alleged development, though jokes about it were current in Buenos Aires cafes when no gaucho cops were in sight. After Dr. Ronald Richter, the Austrian who headed the Peronist atomic project, appeared with a small bandage on his hand, a wag remarked that he must have been wounded by the explosion of one of his atomic bombs.

Now it is reported that the project has been abandoned, that the 300 scientists, engineers and other workers on it have new jobs, and that Richter has been jailed for descacato—meaning lese majeste, or, more simply, making a sucker out of Peron.

Evidently the Argentine caudillo, like many another dictator, had become so convinced of his own infallibility that he wasn't afraid to make an international boast on a subject about which he knew nothing. But his real mistake was that, like Hitler and Stalin, he tried to mix science and politics.

This mixing of the non-mixable has gone so far that in Russia today it is not the scientists but the commissars who decide what is truth and what is nonsense in, for example, genetics. Lysenko, a practical agricultural experimenter ignorant of genetic theory, heads all genetic work. Worse still, all Soviet geneticists are forced to kowtow to his stupidities or suffer severe penalties.

But Lysenko's time may come. What is the Russian for descacato?

Those Arab Refugees

The plight of the so-called Arab refugees represents a vicious circle. Little can be done for them as long as Israeli-Arab relations stay at an impasse, yet one reason, perhaps the main reason, for that impasse is the disagreement on what to do about the refugees.

Almost a million Arabs who left Palestine after 1946 are now living on a mere subsistence level in restricted areas of certain of the Arab states. Some 850,000 of them are on the relief rolls of a UN agency set up on their behalf—470,000 (in round numbers), in Jordan, 205,000 in the Gaza area of Egypt, 105,000 in Lebanon, 85,000 in Syria.

The Arabs say these refugees were forced out of Palestine by Israeli pressure, the Israelis say they pulled out voluntarily because of Arab propaganda. The Arab League calls the refugees too numerous to be absorbed into Arab states, the Tel Aviv government calls them too numerous to be absorbed into Israel, beset as it is by a million or so Jewish immigrants from other lands, including Arab lands, since 1947.

The Arabs insist that Israel compensate the refugees on an individual basis for the property they left behind them. Israel insists that any total compensation due be reduced by its own claims for war damages inflicted by Arab troops and for Jewish-owned property held by the Arabs in Arab states.

The Arabs say that if the boundaries of Israel were reduced to the lines proposed by the UN delimiting commission in 1947, land would be available for resettling the refugees. Israel, calling its present boundaries just and proper, charges the Arab League with keeping the refugees in a miserable status so that it can use them for political bargaining.

Unconquered Everest

The Swiss mountain climbers and their Nepalese companions have failed to reach the summit of Mt. Everest. But they came closer than anybody else.

The old name of the highest mountain is Chomolungma, the goddess-mother, on whose white altar many human sacrifices have died. The Chinese Communists, who have not conquered it, now claim it belongs to them as part of Tibet, though it actually lies partly in Nepal. But no secret police appeared to harass the climbers. Climbing Everest is a man's job.

There's the low atmospheric pressure, for one thing. At an altitude of three miles many men develop nosebleeds, headaches or nausea. At three and a half miles the pressure is only half of what it is at sea level. The symptoms become worse and worse. Oxygen bottles may prevent slow suffocation, but the human body can accustom itself only partly to the low pressures. And Everest reaches to 29,002 feet—five and one-half miles—above sea level.

The intense cold, aggravated by bone-chilling winds, is another hazard. Fifty below is merely average. Such conditions do things to men's bodies, their vision, their hearing, their metabolism. Eternal snows may blind them. The sun's actinic rays become dangerously strong in the thin air. Muscles falter and reflexes fall out of phase. A parched throat becomes a real danger.

The brave and stubborn men who refuse to surrender to unconquered Everest succeed in getting away from it all, and they plod through scenery of impressive and terrible splendor.

Helicopter Commuting

Spectacular successes scored in Korea by helicopters as rescue craft and aerial ambulances have spurred production and development of these ungainly, though safe and efficient, rotor-winged vehicles.

The operational experience gained also has added supporting data to predictions that helicopters will play an increasingly important role in commercial transportation. A start was made with inauguration of helicopter mail service in Los Angeles and Chicago.

The helicopter has inherent assets as a transportation medium. It is capable of flying low and slow, even to the point of hovering, with all that these characteristics imply in terms of safety. Helicopters also transcend the clutter and delay of surface vehicle travel prevalent in most areas today.

The Port of New York Authority took cognizance of the situation over a year ago and engaged four consultants to make a comprehensive study of helicopter service probabilities. That study has been completed, at a cost to the PA of $70,000.

While the consultants prophesy expanding helicopter taxi and commuting service in the New York metropolitan area over the next 20 years, the report stresses the trend will be contingent upon lowering of helicopter operating costs and the degree of assistance rendered by the government, particularly in the granting of subsidies such as made possible the airline service of today.

Heat As A Remedy

There is nothing like a hot water bag or an electric heating pad to soothe an aching back or a stiff neck. Heat is what counts because it offers relaxation and relieves muscle spasm. This time honored remedy probably has been used by man since he learned to make fire.

At present, heat is utilized extensively in treating painful disorders, especially those of muscular or arthritic origin. Sister Kenny's hot packs in the management of polio made history because of their beneficial effect upon spasm. Most physical therapists apply heat in one form or another before massage or manipulation because it induces much needed relaxation. Gymnasiums are filled with athlets having their sore arms or legs baked out under a lamp or in a whirlpool bath.

To the novice heat is heat but to the specialist there are important differences in the varieties of methods now in use. Radiant heat is a form of infra-red energy. Heat is applied by conduction in that it is transferred by direct contact from the warmer to the cooler surface and include many home methods of heating, as with bricks, sandbags, irons, electric pads, compresses, and packs. Infra-red rays are chiefly heat rays; when directed toward the skin they have no magic influence but merely impart a sensation of warmth. If employed in a lamp, heat is conveyed by convection via air. Most of the machines are lamps with carbon or tungsten filament bulbs reinforced with a suitable reflecting surface. The nonluminous types consist of metal coils or plates which glow a dull red when heated. It is a relatively slow method of heating but is suitable for most surface inflammations.

On the other hand, when it is desirable to force heat into deeper tissues the conversion methods are preferred. Here energy is converted into heat through high frequency alternating currents. Furthermore, heat stems from the resistance offered by the tissues to the passage of the electric current, caused by the friction of the electrons as they reverberate back and forth during their rapid oscillations.

There are three types: long wave, or conventional diathermy; short wave, now the most popular of this variety; microwave diathermy, a relative newcomer. Long and short wave diathermy offers rapid and deep penetration and the procedure is easy and convenient to use. Microwave is comparable to a radar system and is said to produce more concentrated and greater penetration of heat. A marked increase in blood flow follows and the muscles ½ inch below the surface are warmed 2 to 5 degrees C.

Ultrasonic energy is the most recent addition to thermotherapy. These waves actually are sound waves but they cannot be perceived by the human ear because their frequency is beyond 20,000 cycles. Some of these machines employ a frequency in excess of 1 million cycles per second. Many claims have been made for this mode of treatment but authorities still consider the procedure experimental.

Other methods of heat therapy include fever cabinets, hot moist air, and paraffin baths. Hot baths and all hydrotherapeutic measures fall into this category, including the whirlpool bath, therapeutic tanks and pools, plus the contrast bath. It is a tremendous field.

DENTURE AGE

H. Y. writes: What is the usual age at which dentures are needed?

REPLY

I have no statistics along this line. A dentist friend of mine made a full set of detures for a 16-year-old girl, but the majority of candidates are much older. There is a good possibility that the decade between 50 and 60 is the denture age.

PNEUMONIAS

F. T. writes: Is virus pneumonia more serious than old fashioned pneumonia?

REPLY

Prior to the discovery of the sulfonamides and penicillin, the older type of pneumonia was more serious; in some forms, one of every three died. Now that the bacterial pneumonias are tamed, the virus is more serious.

ADRENAL INSUFFICIENCY

J. H. writes: I have Addison's disease and my doctor tells me not to use salt. Can you explain why?

REPLY

In Addison's disease, there is a disturbance of that part of the adrenal gland that regulates mineral metabolism. Prior to the advent of our modern hormones, the sufferer usually was given large amounts of salt and carborydrates. If you are receiving one of the hormones the physician is watching your salt intake carefully because the amount must be regulated to prevent the retention of sodium in the tissues.

SMOKING AND ASTHMA

G. T. writes: Does smoking make asthma worse?

REPLY

Yes, because it has an irritating effect on the mucous membrane of the bronchi.

Truman Press Conference

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gen. MacArthur Has Been Lonesome Since Elections; His Speech About Korea Prompted By Desire To Get Back In Eisenhower Picture

WASHINGTON—It was probably a mixture of nostalgic loneliness plus just a bit of personal pique that caused the big furore over MacArthur and Eisenhower, the Truman press conference, and the MacArthur speech that he knew the way out in Korea.

To understand it you have to go back to the days when a young major occupied a desk in the extreme outer office of the chief of staff in the old State, War and Navy Building in Washington. The chief of staff in those days was Douglas MacArthur, about 50 years old, dynamic, straight as a ramrod and given to pacing up and down his office nervously toying with a Japanese fan.

The young officer about three offices removed was Maj. Dwight Eisenhower, who wrote brilliant speeches for the chief of staff, but otherwise was completely overshadowed by the vibrant-voiced general who dominated the War Department.

That was in 1932. The years passed. The pendulum of fate swung back and forth to change the positions of these two.

Major Eisenhower went to the Philippines with the general, helped him train the Philippine constabulary, differed with him, was shipped home. Reasons for the friction vary. Some Filipinos say they found the major was doing the real planning for Philippine defense, figured they could pay the major, save the money they were paying the general. Naturally the general got sore.

At any rate, the pendulum of fate, still swinging, put the major, now a major general, in command in North Africa, then in Europe. It was up to him to get as many troops, as many supplies as possible. A dynamic personality, Winston Churchill, backed him. Naturally the troops and supplies he got lessened those for his old commanding general in the Far East. So the young major, now a full-fledged general, won his European part of the war first.

Three years passed, an election came up, and some Republicans talked about drafting the old general, now in Tokyo. Many Democrats also talked about drafting the young major, now president of a university. However he said no.

But various publishers, visiting Tokyo, had so buttered up the old general that Gen. Bob Eichelberger, then his deputy commander, tells how on July 4, 1948, just before the Republican convention in Philadelphia, he gave the general the review of his life—Army, Navy, WAVES, WAC—polished up with lick and spittle. And the old general stood erect, straight-as-a-ramrod, his arm rigidly at salute, talking out of the side of his mouth to Eichelberger.

"They're not going to take Dewey," said the old general, his eyes fixed on the parade but not really watching it. "The leaders don't like him. And they're not going to take Taft. He hasn't got enough sex appeal. Warren of California won't go with Wall Street. And Vandenberg's got a bad heart.

"So when it's all over they're going to have to come back to me," concluded the old general. "That's their only alternative—if they want to win."

"Look at those WACS, general," said Eichelberger, trying to get his chief's mind off politics. "You know WACS look different going than they do coming."

Disappointment In Philadelphia

But the old general was interested only in what happened when the Republicans convened in Philadelphia. And he told Eichelberger to get ready to take over in Tokyo.

In Philadelphia next week, "MacArthur Headquarters" was be-decked with banners, its tables stacked with literature. But few came to read the literature, and fewer voted for him when the roll was called on the convention floor.

So swung the pendulum of fate.

It continued to swing. Two years passed. Came the Korean War. Things did not go well for the old general. The victory which the American people expected overnight, the quick-and-easy humbling of Communist forces, did not come. Regardless of who was to blame, there were bitter moments for the old general and for the American public.

Politics got into the act. Republican leaders in Washington began using the old general. He began playing into their hands. Finally he was ordered home.

Remarked the young major, now a five-star general in Europe: "When you put on the uniform there are certain inhibitions you accept."

A year later, he came home to run for President, despite a warning from the old general in Lansing, Mich., that no military man should serve in the White House. And despite the old general's keynote speech, calculated to stop him, the young major was nominated.

Five Minutes' Walk

As the pendulum swung further and as it looked like a close race on November 4, certain friends approached the old general urging him to endorse the young major who once sat in his outer office and who was now running for President. No less than the ex-President of the United States approached him; and Winthrop Aldrich, head of the Chase Bank, and Gen. George Kenny, his old air commander in the South Pacific.

"Look, boss," said Kenny, "it's only a five-minute walk from here to Eisenhower's suite in the Commodore Hotel."

"And it's only a five-minute walk from the Commodore here," replied the old general.

So November 4 came, and the man whom the old general still thinks of as a young major, won. He won even without the endorsement of his old commander, without the margin of votes his commander might have swung to him.

Sitting alone in the Waldorf Tower since then, the old general has had plenty of time to think. For no matter who you are or what you say, it's not easy just to fade away.

And the real reason for the old general's speech suggesting a way out in Korea—if only he were consulted—was that the old general wanted to shake hands again with the young major who once sat writing speeches in the extreme outer office of the General Staff suite of the old State, War, and Navy Building. For the truth is that the old general has been lonesome.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Invisible government — where deals and fixes are made that do not involve pecuniary gain for individuals or bribery of officials but which result in vast financial benefits being improperly conferred on economic groups—has flourished under the Truman administration.

If the full story were uncovered as to what has been happening behind the scenes from the time that President Truman two years ago appointed his Wage and Stabilization Boards allegedly to control prices and stabilize salaries, the nation would be shocked at a type of corruption which has come to be accepted as "normal."

Plenty of criticism is heard when somebody in business contributes to somebody's campaign fund after election but the shameful relationships that operate constantly between union labor groups and goverment boards that do their bidding haven't aroused a ripple of comment from the so-called "liberals" who pride themselves on their virtuous interest in governmental ethics.

Contract Renewals Due

Today the CIO is calling for decontrols mostly because it has reached the end of the road of favoritism by governmental boards and thinks it can do better by negotiation with management.

The AFL wants to see controls maintained. It is rightly worried about consumer prices.

A large number of important labor contracts involving many hundreds of thousands of workers are up for renewal in a few months. Not being content to wait for the Eisenhower administration to take office and formulate an anti-inflation policy, the CIO and many business groups want controls ended at once. Management organizations have begun to boycott the wage boards by refusing to encourage businessmen to accept appointments on regional or national boards. Not long ago labor union leaders boycotted the same boards because it was desired to influence the administration to take over not only the handling of wages but disputes of union shops and other matters which usually would be handled under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Neither management nor labor groups have acted in the public interest. They probably cannot because of their overriding material interest. It is understandable how each side has been displeased with the evolution of governmental policy in dealing with wage controls but the real villain in the piece is the administration with its clandestine deals with labor. President Truman made a deal with the late Phil Murray in December 1951 promising him not to use the Taft-Hartley Act and this resulted in the most costly steel strike in history. Likewise just before the recent election the Wage Stabilization Board approved a $1.50 a day increase for coal miners but John L. Lewis started a strike that might have cost the Democratic party not only the electoral votes of West Virginia, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana and other states where the coal-miner vote sometimes holds the balance of power but also the seats of Democratic members of Congress previously favorable to labor. Mr. Truman made a deal through one of his emissaries and Mr. Lewis called off the strike a few days before the election. West Virginia went Democratic.

Truman Came Through

The pay-off came just the same after the election when the Wage Stabilization Board was overruled by the President himself so as to grant the $1.90 a day which Lewis wanted. So sure was Mr. Lewis that his deal would be put through after election that he went off for a vacation to South America last month sublimely indifferent. This isn't the way a big labor union leader usually treats an unsettled issue. Mr. Truman came through and approved the increase but there also came a wave of resignations from members of the wage boards throughout the country.

It will be suggested that maybe there shouldn't be any labor or industry members on these boards at all but simply public members. This would be excellent if public members could be chosen who were really disinterested. An important official of the government—not connected previously either with labor or business but thoroughly familiar with the situation

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON

While we were lost in the turmoil of our election, a new French ambassador, the able Louis Joxe, presented his letters of credence in Moscow. To his complete astonishment, Joxe immediately received an unprecedented invitation to call on Marshal Stalin.

Stalin, without saying much of substance, welcomed Joxe to Moscow with effusive friendliness, strongly emphasizing the historic ties between France and Russia. In the atmosphere thus carefully created, Joxe was then exposed to a further conversation with the Soviet foreign minister, Andrei Vishinsky. After many a sad reference to the sad state of the world, and especially to the sad state of Germany, Vishinsky strongly hinted that France and Russia ought to go into a quiet corner together, and talk about their common problems.

Obviously, accepting Vishinsky's hinted invitation would have one major and immediate consequence. The official Anglo-Franco-American policy for Germany, notably including the plan for German divisions within a European army, would be hopelessly disrupted. Equally obviously, however, no such Soviet invitation, even if vague and formless, could be thoughtlessly turned down.

Within the French government a substantial minority (largely composed, of course, of men who dislike the official German policy) strongly advocated a favorable response to the Vishinsky overture. The majority successfully argued, however, that the united front of the Western nations could not be lightly sacrificed in such a manner. So Joxe returned to Moscow again with instructions to maintain a poker face, and to continue to act in concert with his American and British colleagues.

Part Of Bigger Pattern

This important but hitherto undisclosed episode of recent diplomatic history is a good introduction to the present report, because Joxe's experience with Stalin and Vishinsky was part of a much larger pattern. So was the abrupt dismissal of our own ambassador to Moscow, George Kennan, shortly after the Joxe episode. So are such little things as the Soviet rule that American embassy cars in Moscow cannot take left turns, whereas British cars can; and so are such big things as Korea and the recent Congress of the Russian Communist party.

What, then, is this pattern, which may be called Stalin's new plan? It has, broadly speaking, two parts. On the one hand, the Kremlin's expansive pressure is being maintained, at full strength, in the Far East. Lenin long ago declared that for world communism, the real road to Paris and London led through Peking and the colonial nations of the Orient. If the passage of time brings the Kremlin an oriental victory—in Indo-China, for example—the strategic and political consequences will be overwhelming, and will extend from Asia to Europe.

But this fact is very far from clearly understood in such countries as France and Britain, where difficulties at home tend to make even the wisest men forget more remote dangers. While the pressure in the Far East is being maintained, the pressure in Europe has been markedly relaxed. Soviet bullying, unfortunately, has usually been the main stimulus to Western unity. The second part of the Soviet pattern is to withhold this stimulus, and to encourage a break in the unity of the West by all possible means.

Here, in some ways the Kremlin has an almost better bet than in the Far East. One can point to a whole series of rocks on which the frail craft of Western unity can all too easily founder.

Long, Depressing List

There is Korea; there is Indo-China; there is Iran. There is an ugly group of emerging problems in Africa. There is a crisis in NATO military planning. There is the possibility that France or Germany will not vote the European army, and will thus leave the defense of Western Europe without the keystone of the arch—the planned 12 German divisions. There is the danger—perhaps the most worrying of all—that a mild American recession will touch off a major European depression with all the terrible political and social consequences that major depressions always bring.

Truly, the list is as long as it is depressing; and each item on the list is entirely capable of plunging the Western Allies into a chaos of mutual recrimination, disloyalty and devil-take-the-hindmost tactics. This list, moveover, is the unhappy measure of President-elect-Eisenhower's new responsibilities. He will need all the support, all the sympathy, all the understanding, that the country and the Congress can give him.

Such is the dark side of the balance sheet, as it appears today, to one just returned from a brief but intensive inquiry abroad. Fortunately what is good, healthy and hopeful more the less outweighs what is dark and ominous. A subsequent report will suggest how much Gen. Eisenhower can accomplish, if he attacks his heavy task with a good heart and the power of the United States behind him.

No Jazz For Joe

In a monolithic world, even jazz becomes a political problem. Jazz is a kind of syncopated music which some people like to hear and have a right to under the Constitution. It is reputed to have been invented in New Orleans and its greatest exponent, I am told, is William C. Handy, one of the finest human beings I have ever encountered. Irving Berlin wrote "Alexander's Ragtime Band" in this mood when we were all younger, and there was a band called Jellyroll Morton's Red Hot Peppers.

However, I discover that M. Sokolsky, who must be a music commissar in Soviet Russia, and no relative of mine for all I know, has declared jazz condemned. He writes a long article on the subject which I have just read. In the United States anybody can like any kind of music from a hurdy-gurdy to Bach, Beethoven and Brahms without offending the government. True, Mr. Truman wrote a letter on the subject once, but no laws were broken. In Soviet Russia, it is different: jazz is condemned.

Says the music commissar, M. Sokolsky:

"What, indeed, is less 'in harmony' with our music, our Soviet songs, the Soviet people's great wealth of folklore, than a saxophone throbbing like an aching tooth or howling away, than trombones roaring deafeningly, than muted trumpets squealing, or the monotonous, dull thump of the whole family of percussion instruments relentlessly hammering into the listeners' consciousness the mechanically repetitious rhythms of fox trot or rhumba?

"No! We are resolutely opposed to the artificial combination of our music with the jazz band; those who try to squeeze our music into jazz form by main force mutilate and mangle it."

It just goes to show that no two races of man can agree on anything. I was reading in this article a quotation from the original American-hater, Maxim Gorky, and I was sure what he was describing was a symphony of Shostakovich as conducted by Leonard Bernstein:

"Suddenly the thoughtful silence is broken by the full beat of an idiotic drumstick—one, two, three, 10, 20 drumbeats and then, like a lump of mud dropped into clear, transparent water, there comes a wild shrieking, whistling, roaring, howling and banging; inhuman voices, suggestive of a horse's neighing, burst forth; there is the grunting of brass pigs, the braying of donkeys, the croaking of frogs a-wooing; all this outrageous chaos of mad sound follows a barely perceptible rhythm; and after listening for a minute or two to these wails one involuntarily begins to imagine that an orchestra of madmen is performing."

But no! This is not Shostakovich; it is a description of American jazz. Gorky probably never heard of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," or the glorious music of "Porgy and Bess." For him, it is enough that jazz was made in America for it to be hated. Here is the punch line that tells the story:

"Need one mention to that jazz in the U.S.A. is not just 'art,' but, like the Hollywood 'industry,' a business, an article of export. They call jazz there 'the music of big business.' The U.S.A. 'bestows upon' the Marshallized countries tens of millions of jazz records, along with Hollywood's trash. There is double profit and a double purpose in this: to dispose of unsold stocks and by the scrunch and squeal and roar of senseless, stupefying jazz 'music' to deaden, to kill the man in men, to turn them into cannon fodder. Jazz is the music of enslavement of the spirit. . ."

In other words, jazz has politics, just as coarse grains and rubber have politics. There is so much politics in this world today that it has become a sickening treacle that pervades our lives. The British defend selling rubber to Stalin because they get coarse grains from him. They can also get coarse grains from the United States or Canada where they are plentiful but non-political. The British prefer political coarse grains, just as the Labor party made a fetish of political peanuts in Africa.

I wonder if Stalin will one day condemn beer, Rhine wine and Burgundies and force all his slaves to drink vodka. This could be regarded as a political interpretation of the economics of a hangover and might be brought before the General Assembly of the United Nations as an example of genocide. When politics is the ruler, taste must fade on the vine.

Valley Road Improvement Urged At Council Meeting

Narrowness and jutting corners constitute a dangerous condition to traffic on Valley Road, an operator of school buses told the Mayor and Council yesterday morning in an appeal for correction of the hazards.

Ward Wilson, RD 3, the bus operator, said one of his buses loaded with children recently had been struck by a car on one of five narrow sections of the road and just missed plunging over a bank back of the guard rail. He said the road is especially dangerous when slippery.

Wilson said he had five buses using the road, making 20 trips a day and hauling approximately 450 school children. A bad accident could have killed many of the children, he said, adding that the road is one of the most dangerous places within 100 miles of Cumberland.

City To Study Widening

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, made a motion which was approved unanimously that City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum make a study for widening the road.

Meanwhile, she added, the department has that section at the top if its list for relief during slippery and snowy weather.

Wilson said it would help if during snows, the area was cindered before 8 a. m.

The council approved application of the Exchange and Optimist clubs to sponsor King Brothers circus here May 11 at mid-city ball park, Wineow Street.

Bid of the Queen City Neon Company for 12 "walk" and "don't walk" signs was accepted. The firm's bid is $840.

Ordered paid was $16.54 to Richard W. Trevaskis Jr., for overpayment of taxes and $250 to the Cumberland Choral Society to assist that group with its program.

Payroll Approved

Payroll for the first two weeks of December was approved.

Read was a letter of thanks from the Volunteer Auxiliary Police for a city contribution toward its purchase of a jeep.

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn reported he had requested the State Roads Commission of West Virginia to send ten signs to point out direction to West Virginia Route 28. These will be placed at Williams Street and Maryland Avenue.

Approved was the application of Fred W. Jenkins for Astor Cab Company to install a 2,000 gallon underground gasoline storage tank at 150 Wineow Street.

A license for a used stove store by David T. Sharp for 120 Federal Street was approved.

ENLISTS IN WAC's — Miss Darlene Walters (above) of Flintstone has enlisted in the Women's Army Corps at the local recruiting station. She has been assigned to Fort Meade for basic training with the Medical Corps. Miss Walters is a graduate of Flintstone High School.

Soldier Hospitalized While Visiting Here

Pvt. Harry Panaccionne, who was visiting here while enroute to Anchorage, Alaska, from Hempstead, Long Island, N. Y., was admitted to Memorial Hospital Wednesday after becoming ill suddenly. He was later transferred to the base hospital at Fort George G. Meade.

He and his wife were visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, 611 North Mechanic Street.

State Supervisor Will Visit Allegany County

Willis H. White, new supervisor of high schools for the State Department of Education will be in Allegany County all day next Wednesday to observe the schools here, Superintendent Ralph R. Webster announced yesterday.

This will mark White's second visit here since assuming his new duties at the beginning of the school year. He was principal of Kenwood High School in Baltimore County before being promoted to the job held by the late Dr. Floyd Cromwell, who died July 4.

Yule Shoppers Advised To Check Homes

Preparatory to starting a two-pronged police campaign to protect Christmas shoppers and speed up the flow of traffic in downtown Cumberland, Chief R. Emmett Flynn has issued a list of suggestions for householders.

Flynn said patrolmen will concentrate efforts, beginning today when stores remain open daily until 9 p. m. for customers, to guard against breakings and enterings, shoplifters and pickpockets.

For shoppers leaving their homes unattended, at night, he advised:

"Keep a light burning in the house but turn off the porch light; do not pull down the window shades or leave notes indicating the time you will return; do not leave your key under the mat, over the door or in the mailbox.

"Be sure that all doors and windows are securely locked and get into the habit of double-locking the doors; close the garage doors to avoid revealing your absence, and advise your neighbors to call police if their suspicions are aroused."

Charles Stops Frankie Buford

BOSTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—Ex-Heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati scored a technical knockout over Frankie Buford of Oakland, Calif., tonight in 2:13 of the seventh round of their scheduled 10-rounder in Boston Garden.

Charles had dropped Buford for a four-count with a two-fisted attack in the sixth and then Referee Joe Zapustas stopped it after a straight right to the jaw felled Buford for eight in the next session. Charles weighed 187 to Buford's 202.

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (INS)—In Intercollegiate circles today we hear that Brown University will be the eastern school to watch in football next fall . . .

Brown's freshmen outfit walloped everybody it played this year . . . including Yale and Harvard . . . incidentally, if Brown ever runs short of cash there's an old Brown grad who is said to have a few bucks left . . . fellow named John D. Rockefeller, Jr. . . . who managed the Brown football team in 1896 . . .

And Tom Bolles . . . who coached so many great Harvard crews for so many years . . . and is now athletic director there . . . bemoans the fact that Navy's Olympic champion crew will be intact next season . . . except for the coxswain . . .

"A coxswain," says Tom, "is not easily replaced . . . he can never win a race but he certainly can lose one . . ."

Commenting on arranging schedules for any sport, Tom says . . . "schedules are easy if you have a team with a name but one which everybody else thinks they can lick . . ."

The Harvard sage also declares "that nobody likes to face certain defeat . . . that's why it is a good thing some of the football powers lose a few games . . . it makes the rest of us feel that we have at least a fighting chance "

Eastern football officials are to take their exams at Annapolis next Sept. 5 . . . and George M. Crawford San Diego . . . one of our toughest critics . . . probably will agree that some of us should be made to take the same exams . . .

Who's the most feared fighter in the ring today? . . . Rocky Marciano? or any of the other champs? . . . not at all . . . everybody is willing to tackle them . . . if only to get the loser's end . . .

Matchmakers tell us the guy they all duck is middleweight Ray Barnes of Detroit . . . even fighter as good as Bob Olson want no part of him . . . one matchmaker told us that some managers of fighters were willing to tackle Barnes . . . "provided he wore handcuffs . . ."

George Eastment . . . Manhattan College's fine track coach . . . is already getting some sour looks from rivals . . . since, among others, he can and will send into action the fastest trio of sprinters any coach can boast . . .

These are Lindy Remigino . . . Olympic 100-meter champion . . . Jack O'Connell . . . National AAU 60-yard king . . . and Joe Schatzle . . . who may be only a slight shade slower than the other two . . .

And speaking of champions were you aware that even champion race horses are subject to human ills just like humans? . . . Walter Jefford's three-year old king, One Count, had pernicious anemia . . . and couldn't untrack himself . . . until he got a shot or two of vitamins . . . then he flew . . .

Archie Moore Thinks He Can Stop Champion

Trains Nine Weeks For Go With Maxim

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 15 (AP)—Archie Moore has to pinch himself every now and then just to believe that he's actually getting a crack at Joey Maxim's light heavyweight title here Wednesday night.

"Year after year I went along knowing that I deserved the chance at the title and hoping that I would get it and nothing happened," said Moore as he wound up training.

"Then all of a sudden I've got it—and it seems so sudden, just like a dream."

Now that he has his opportunity, the husky, 36-year-old Negro intends to make the most of it. He's trained harder and longer for this 15-rounder than for any other scrap in his 16-year pro career.

Trains For Nine Weeks

"I've put in nine weeks training and have boxed between 130 and 140 rounds," said Moore. "I'm ready now as I'll ever be and I'm going to take that title. That's what I've been working for these years.

"I think I can beat Maxim—I know I can. I think I'll stop him. I've seen Maxim fight and I always did believe I could beat him even in his best days."

Long hailed as the "uncrowned champion" as title holder after titleholder passed him by for easier opponents, Moore feels that at 36 he's as good now and maybe better than ever before.

"I knew that if I ever was going to get my chance that I would have to keep up with the current contenders," he said.

Lost One Of 28 Bouts

In the last three and a half years, Moore has lost only once in 28 fights and has scored 19 knockouts. His victims included heavyweight contenders Clarence Henry and Jimmy Bivins.

His sole loss was to rugged Harold Johnson, the Philadelphia 175-pound contender, on Dec. 10 last year. He avenged that defeat by whipping Johnson a month and a half later. He had beaten Johnson twice previously.

Baltimore Buys 8,000 Tickets For Grid Team

BALTIMORE, Dec. 15 (AP) — Although an amazing 8,000 tickets have been sold in one week, Baltimoreans were advised today against getting optimistic yet about their return to the National Football League.

"I'm pleased by the sale thus far," said League Commissioner Bert Bell, "but they've got to keep on going. The last seven thousand are the toughest. They shouldn't get optimistic."

Bell has promised Baltimore another league franchise if it sells 15,000 season tickets by Jan. 22. The city gave up a franchise after the 1950 season. Bell plans to locate the homeless Dallas Texans here.

The season tickets are for six home games and cost $19. Those buying them now, in the middle of the Christmas rush, don't even get a ticket or any idea of where the seats will be. All they get is a numbered receipt which will be redeemable later on a "first come, first served" basis.

Arkansas Council Would Abolish Job Of John Barnhill

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 15 (AP) — The Arkansas Legislative Council today adopted a motion which, if it becomes effective, would abolish the job of University of Arkansas Athletic Director John H. Barnhill.

The motion was in the form of a rider to the proposed university biennial budget.

The motion must be acted upon by the 1953 Legislature before it can become effective.

The motion was introduced by Representative Paul van Dalsem of Perry County, who declared that "every man here knows there's been strife" within the university athletic staff.

Van Dalsem, who said he had never met Barnhill, declared that "the feeling between the athletic director and the coach," apparently referring to the resigned Otis Douglas, "has been so strong that it just tore up the football team."

Clevenger Standout

One of the highlights of the current basketball season is the performance of Jimmy Clevenger, the Keyserite, who at present is pacing the Old Germans in scoring with 50 points in three games.

Clevenger probably is the fastest man on the local pro quint and he has looked great in all of the games played to date. He's the slambang type of player the fans enjoy seeing in action. He can run like a deer, never seems to tire, can wing the leather through the cords from any position and he's a brilliant player on rebounds.

Trailing Jimmy in the scoring column is Bob Pence with 46 tallies. Roy Lester has 33, Lou Bell 23, Roger Day 20, George Geatz 17, Wayne Boor 15 and "Brud" Montgomery 4.

The Old Germans have scored 208 points in three games for an average of 69.

Last Friday night at Madison Square Garden the fans witnessed two very bad matches, both of which displeased Robert Christenberry, chairman of the New York Boxing Commission.

One was the first round knockout of Raul Perez of Cuba by Johnny Saxton and the other in which Art Swiden of New Kensington, Pa., won the nod over Waddell Hanna of Philadelphia.

Swiden is the fellow who put on that prize waltz with Ben Skelton of Pittsburgh here May 22, 1950. Fortunately only 265 persons turned out for that affair and they booed it from start to finish. We labeled it a "stinkeroo."

Mr. Christenberry said he "didn't like the eight round semi-final in which Hanna and Swiden appeared." He did not explain his remark but we can imagine they're "wising up" in New York, too.

The Major League All-Stars, a basketball team composed of former and present Pittsburgh Pirates, are now booking road games.

Included on the roster are Frankie Gustine, "Jeep" Handley, Cliff Chambers, Bobby Del Greco, Frank Thomas, Lenny Levy, Vinny Smith, Tony Bartirome, Jackie Brown and Pete Castiglione. Non-Pirates on the squad are Roger Jorgensen and Manny Hyatt.

The talk of the Dog World this year is the performances of Champion Rancho Dobe's Storm, black and tan coated Doberman Pinscher, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Len Carey, of Cos Bob, Conn.

Breaking through a record field of 937, this Doberman gained the coveted Best In Show prize at the 21st all-breed event of the Camden (N. J.) County Kennel Club the other day.

Storm, the 1952 Westminster winner, who has gained 16 top awards in 23 showings.

Mark Funk, boss of Pennsylvania's schoolboy sports, doesn't think much of the new "bonus" foul rule in basketball.

He's been deluged by phone calls daily from persons who have taken issue with the rule.

Funk is continually bombarding the national rules committee with letters, asking that they place a freeze on rules changes for at least two years in order that players, officials and fans might get a chance to catch up with the regulations which have been added to the books in recent seasons.

Sixty per cent of the deer killed in Maryland this year were bagged in Region No. 1, which comprises Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties. This mark will climb slightly higher as the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club's special season in Washington county opened yesterday and closes Christmas Day.

To date 1,517 bucks have fallen in Maryland. Garrett led with 583, Allegany was second with 230 and Washington third with 123. The Edgewood Arsenal Area reported 182 kills and Worcester county checked 110.

Long bow hunters are credited with slaying 21 of the animals this year.

Last year the kill was 1,206. The Edgewood Area was closed, there was no bow hunting and Queen Anne and Carroll counties were not open. Without the 218 killed in these sectors the toll was 1,299 this year which still exceeds the 1951 total.

The Cumberland Fair Association would like to stage its racing meet in 1953 on the last week of July and the first week in August. Those dates are subject to approval or rejection by the State Racing Commission which is now trying to arrange dates to please the mile tracks.

Don Hurst, 47, former Phillies' first sacker, died in Los Angeles the other day.

Hurst played with the Phils against the Cumberland Colts in an exhibition game here in 1927.

"Let's hit a couple out of the park, "Don remarked to "Chuck" Klein, the Phils' home run belter.

"Not off that guy," Klein replied. "He doesn't give you anything good to hit."

Irvin "Stub" Rase was on the peak for the Dobbins that day.

Hal's Play, owned by Louis Waingold of this city, marked up win No. 3 of the year yesterday by romping home first in the fifth race at Charles Town, W. Va. Apprentice Billy Hartack was aboard the $19.20 for $2 winner.

Waingold's thoroughbred's, trained by Norman (Junie) Corbin, have won eight races this year.

Paul Says Reds Close 1952 With $34,706 Deficit

Opines Ownership Of Minors Unsound

CINCINNATI, Dec. 15 (AP)—General Manager Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Reds declared today that major league ownership of minor league clubs, "except for operational reasons, is unsound."

Paul made the statement to Reds' stockholders as he reported the Cincinnati club ended the 1952 fiscal year with a net loss of $34,706.50 despite an increase of 15,929 in home attendance.

Mounting operation costs were blamed for the deficit and Paul said the largest increase in expenses was in player development. He reported that the Reds' farm system now holds twice as many player contracts as it did a year ago but, he added:

"The ownership of minor league clubs by major league clubs is becoming an increasingly hazardous financial undertaking."

Explaining that the ratio of expenses for most minor league clubs is greater than for major league teams, Paul continued:

"The ownership of minor league clubs, except for operation reasons, is unsound. It is necessary to have one or two ownership clubs in a farm system for operational reasons but, beyond that, the ownership is a distinct luxury as the same benefits can be gained from working agreements without the possibility of large losses."

The Reds now have working agreements with three clubs and own three outright. Clubs they own are Tulsa of the Texas League, Columbia, S. C. of the Sally League and Ogden, Utah, of the Pioneer League.

AS YOU WERE

Here is a young pugilist who got quite a few feature bouts in Cumberland and Hagerstown 25 years ago. He was a lightweight and during the height of his fistic career he won ten straight matches. One of his chief rivals for lightweight honors was Mike Farrie of Hagerstown. They tangled six times and the fellow pictured here emerged the winner in four of the scraps. He won the National Guard 135-pound title by whipping Farrie at Virginia Beach, Va., decisioned such good fighters as "Slambang" Harry Taylor of Johnstown, Pa., Johnny Michaels of Jamestown, N. Y., and fought a sizzling draw with Young Zabish, one of the better lightweights out of Pittsburgh. He finally was dethroned as local champion by George "Buddy" Crass. What's his name?

He's Raymond "Buck" Griffith and he was managed by Christ Charuhas, who was known as Cumberland's "Jerry The Greek." Griffith has been employed as a barber in Washington, D. C. for the past ten years.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (INS)—In Intercollegiate circles today we hear that Brown University will be the eastern school to watch in football next fall . . .

Brown's freshmen outfit walloped everybody it played this year . . . including Yale and Harvard . . . incidentally, if Brown ever runs short of cash there's an old Brown grad who is said to have a few bucks left . . . fellow named John D. Rockefeller, Jr. . . . who managed the Brown football team in 1896 . . .

And Tom Bolles . . . who coached so many great Harvard crews for so many years . . . and is now athletic director there . . . bemoans the fact that Navy's Olympic champion crew will be intact next season . . . except for the coxswain . . .

"A coxswain," says Tom, "is not easily replaced . . . he can never win a race but he certainly can lose one . . ."

Commenting on arranging schedules for any sport, Tom says . . . "schedules are easy if you have a team with a name but one which everybody else thinks they can lick . . ."

The Harvard sage also declares "that nobody likes to face certain defeat . . . that's why it is a good thing some of the football powers lose a few games . . . it makes the rest of us feel that we have at least a fighting chance "

Eastern football officials are to take their exams at Annapolis next Sept. 5 . . . and George M. Crawford San Diego . . . one of our toughest critics . . . probably will agree that some of us should be made to take the same exams . . .

Who's the most feared fighter in the ring today? . . . Rocky Marciano? or any of the other champs? . . . not at all . . . everybody is willing to tackle them . . . if only to get the loser's end . . .

Matchmakers tell us the guy they all duck is middleweight Ray Barnes of Detroit . . . even fighter as good as Bob Olson want no part of him . . . one matchmaker told us that some managers of fighters were willing to tackle Barnes . . . "provided he wore handcuffs . . ."

George Eastment . . . Manhattan College's fine track coach . . . is already getting some sour looks from rivals . . . since, among others, he can and will send into action the fastest trio of sprinters any coach can boast . . .

These are Lindy Remigino . . . Olympic 100-meter champion . . . Jack O'Connell . . . National AAU 60-yard king . . . and Joe Schatzle . . . who may be only a slight shade slower than the other two . . .

And speaking of champions were you aware that even champion race horses are subject to human ills just like humans? . . . Walter Jefford's three-year old king, One Count, had pernicious anemia . . . and couldn't untrack himself . . . until he got a shot or two of vitamins . . . then he flew . . .

Archie Moore Thinks He Can Stop Champion

Trains Nine Weeks For Go With Maxim

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 15 (AP)—Archie Moore has to pinch himself every now and then just to believe that he's actually getting a crack at Joey Maxim's light heavyweight title here Wednesday night.

"Year after year I went along knowing that I deserved the chance at the title and hoping that I would get it and nothing happened," said Moore as he wound up training.

"Then all of a sudden I've got it—and it seems so sudden, just like a dream."

Now that he has his opportunity, the husky, 36-year-old Negro intends to make the most of it. He's trained harder and longer for this 15-rounder than for any other scrap in his 16-year pro career.

Trains For Nine Weeks

"I've put in nine weeks training and have boxed between 130 and 140 rounds," said Moore. "I'm ready now as I'll ever be and I'm going to take that title. That's what I've been working for these years.

"I think I can beat Maxim—I know I can. I think I'll stop him. I've seen Maxim fight and I always did believe I could beat him even in his best days."

Long hailed as the "uncrowned champion" as title holder after titleholder passed him by for easier opponents, Moore feels that at 36 he's as good now and maybe better than ever before.

"I knew that if I ever was going to get my chance that I would have to keep up with the current contenders," he said.

Lost One Of 28 Bouts

In the last three and a half years, Moore has lost only once in 28 fights and has scored 19 knockouts. His victims included heavyweight contenders Clarence Henry and Jimmy Bivins.

His sole loss was to rugged Harold Johnson, the Philadelphia 175-pound contender, on Dec. 10 last year. He avenged that defeat by whipping Johnson a month and a half later. He had beaten Johnson twice previously.

Baltimore Buys 8,000 Tickets For Grid Team

BALTIMORE, Dec. 15 (AP) — Although an amazing 8,000 tickets have been sold in one week, Baltimoreans were advised today against getting optimistic yet about their return to the National Football League.

"I'm pleased by the sale thus far," said League Commissioner Bert Bell, "but they've got to keep on going. The last seven thousand are the toughest. They shouldn't get optimistic."

Bell has promised Baltimore another league franchise if it sells 15,000 season tickets by Jan. 22. The city gave up a franchise after the 1950 season. Bell plans to locate the homeless Dallas Texans here.

The season tickets are for six home games and cost $19. Those buying them now, in the middle of the Christmas rush, don't even get a ticket or any idea of where the seats will be. All they get is a numbered receipt which will be redeemable later on a "first come, first served" basis.

Arkansas Council Would Abolish Job Of John Barnhill

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 15 (AP) — The Arkansas Legislative Council today adopted a motion which, if it becomes effective, would abolish the job of University of Arkansas Athletic Director John H. Barnhill.

The motion was in the form of a rider to the proposed university biennial budget.

The motion must be acted upon by the 1953 Legislature before it can become effective.

The motion was introduced by Representative Paul van Dalsem of Perry County, who declared that "every man here knows there's been strife" within the university athletic staff.

Van Dalsem, who said he had never met Barnhill, declared that "the feeling between the athletic director and the coach," apparently referring to the resigned Otis Douglas, "has been so strong that it just tore up the football team."

Clevenger Standout • - • - • Wants Rules Frozen

New York Gets Wise • - • - • 1,517 Bucks Killed

By C. V. BURNS

One of the highlights of the current basketball season is the performance of Jimmy Clevenger, the Keyserite, who at present is pacing the Old Germans in scoring with 50 points in three games.

Clevenger probably is the fastest man on the local pro quint and he has looked great in all of the games played to date. He's the slambang type of player the fans enjoy seeing in action. He can run like a deer, never seems to tire, can wing the leather through the cords from any position and he's a brilliant player on rebounds.

Trailing Jimmy in the scoring column is Bob Pence with 46 tallies. Roy Lester has 33, Lou Bell 23, Roger Day 20, George Geatz 17, Wayne Boor 15 and "Brud" Montgomery 4.

The Old Germans have scored 208 points in three games for an average of 69.

Last Friday night at Madison Square Garden the fans witnessed two very bad matches, both of which displeased Robert Christenberry, chairman of the New York Boxing Commission.

One was the first round knockout of Raul Perez of Cuba by Johnny Saxton and the other in which Art Swiden of New Kensington, Pa., won the nod over Waddell Hanna of Philadelphia.

Swiden is the fellow who put on that prize waltz with Ben Skelton of Pittsburgh here May 22, 1950. Fortunately only 265 persons turned out for that affair and they booed it from start to finish. We labeled it a "stinkeroo."

Mr. Christenberry said he "didn't like the eight round semi-final in which Hanna and Swiden appeared." He did not explain his remark but we can imagine they're "wising up" in New York, too.

The Major League All-Stars, a basketball team composed of former and present Pittsburgh Pirates, are now booking road games.

Included on the roster are Frankie Gustine, "Jeep" Handley, Cliff Chambers, Bobby Del Greco, Frank Thomas, Lenny Levy, Vinny Smith, Tony Bartirome, Jackie Brown and Pete Castiglione. Non-Pirates on the squad are Roger Jorgensen and Manny Hyatt.

The talk of the Dog World this year is the performances of Champion Rancho Dobe's Storm, black and tan coated Doberman Pinscher, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Len Carey, of Cos Bob, Conn.

Breaking through a record field of 937, this Doberman gained the coveted Best In Show prize at the 21st all-breed event of the Camden (N. J.) County Kennel Club the other day.

Storm, the 1952 Westminster winner, who has gained 16 top awards in 23 showings.

Mark Funk, boss of Pennsylvania's schoolboy sports, doesn't think much of the new "bonus" foul rule in basketball.

He's been deluged by phone calls daily from persons who have taken issue with the rule.

Funk is continually bombarding the national rules committee with letters, asking that they place a freeze on rules changes for at least two years in order that players, officials and fans might get a chance to catch up with the regulations which have been added to the books in recent seasons.

Sixty per cent of the deer killed in Maryland this year were bagged in Region No. 1, which comprises Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties. This mark will climb slightly higher as the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club's special season in Washington county opened yesterday and closes Christmas Day.

To date 1,517 bucks have fallen in Maryland. Garrett led with 583, Allegany was second with 230 and Washington third with 123. The Edgewood Arsenal Area reported 182 kills and Worcester county checked 110.

Long bow hunters are credited with slaying 21 of the animals this year.

Last year the kill was 1,206. The Edgewood Area was closed, there was no bow hunting and Queen Anne and Carroll counties were not open. Without the 218 killed in these sectors the toll was 1,299 this year which still exceeds the 1951 total.

The Cumberland Fair Association would like to stage its racing meet in 1953 on the last week of July and the first week in August. Those dates are subject to approval or rejection by the State Racing Commission which is now trying to arrange dates to please the mile tracks.

Don Hurst, 47, former Phillies' first sacker, died in Los Angeles the other day.

Hurst played with the Phils against the Cumberland Colts in an exhibition game here in 1927.

"Let's hit a couple out of the park, "Don remarked to "Chuck" Klein, the Phils' home run belter.

"Not off that guy," Klein replied. "He doesn't give you anything good to hit."

Lions, Rams Meet Sunday

NFL Teams Will Play Until Somebody Wins

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15 (AP) — The Detroit Lions and the Los Angeles Rams will play until somebody wins next Sunday. There will be no tie game.

Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, said that should the score of the playoff game for the National Conference title at Detroit be tied at the end of the regulation game, the teams will start a fifth quarter and the first one to score, wins.

The winner will meet the Cleveland Browns, American Conference champion, in the NFL title game at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium Dec. 28.

Hal's Play Winner, Pays $19.20 For $2 At Charles Town

Hal's Play, owned by Louis Waingold of this city, marked up win No. 3 of the year yesterday by romping home first in the fifth race at Charles Town, W. Va. Apprentice Billy Hartack was aboard the $19.20 for $2 winner.

Waingold's thoroughbred's, trained by Norman (Junie) Corbin, have won eight races this year.

In addition to yesterday's win, Hal's Play scored at Waterford Downs, W. Va., and Ascot Park, Ohio.

Honey Bunch won at Ascot, Wheeling and Waterford while Frigate took the major portion of two purses at Waterford and Wheeling.

Yesterday's win by Hal's Play was worth $700 of the $1,000 purse.

At the conclusion of the Charles Town meeting this week, the Waingold string will be quartered at a farm near the West Virginia track until racing is resumed next spring.

Syckes Music Shop edged SS. Peter and Paul, 34-33, the Merchants Wholesalers lost a 28-22 decision to Tri-State Roofing and Gehauf's Amoco defeated Jewell's Brokers, 30-28, in opening games of the City Recreation Basketball League last night at Allegany High School.

High scorers were:

Lease of Syckes 11; Minnicks, Kegg and McKenzie, SS. Peter and Paul, eight points each; Schramm, Merchants, 7; Welsh, Tri-State, 12; Taylor, Jewell's, 10; Brown, Gehauf's 14.

Paul Says Reds Close 1952 With $34,706 Deficit

Opines Ownership Of Minors Unsound

CINCINNATI, Dec. 15 (AP)—General Manager Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Reds declared today that major league ownership of minor league clubs, "except for operational reasons, is unsound."

Paul made the statement to Reds' stockholders as he reported the Cincinnati club ended the 1952 fiscal year with a net loss of $34,706.50 despite an increase of 15,929 in home attendance.

Mounting operation costs were blamed for the deficit and Paul said the largest increase in expenses was in player development. He reported that the Reds' farm system now holds twice as many player contracts as it did a year ago but, he added:

"The ownership of minor league clubs by major league clubs is becoming an increasingly hazardous financial undertaking."

Explaining that the ratio of expenses for most minor league clubs is greater than for major league teams, Paul continued:

"The ownership of minor league clubs, except for operation reasons, is unsound. It is necessary to have one or two ownership clubs in a farm system for operational reasons but, beyond that, the ownership is a distinct luxury as the same benefits can be gained from working agreements without the possibility of large losses."

The Reds now have working agreements with three clubs and own three outright. Clubs they own are Tulsa of the Texas League, Columbia, S. C. of the Sally League and Ogden, Utah, of the Pioneer League.

AS YOU WERE

Here is a young pugilist who got quite a few feature bouts in Cumberland and Hagerstown 25 years ago. He was a lightweight and during the height of his fistic career he won ten straight matches. One of his chief rivals for lightweight honors was Mike Farrie of Hagerstown. They tangled six times and the fellow pictured here emerged the winner in four of the scraps. He won the National Guard 135-pound title by whipping Farrie at Virginia Beach, Va., decisioned such good fighters as "Slambang" Harry Taylor of Johnstown, Pa., Johnny Michaels of Jamestown, N. Y., and fought a sizzling draw with Young Zabish, one of the better lightweights out of Pittsburgh. He finally was dethroned as local champion by George "Buddy" Crass. What's his name?

He's Raymond "Buck" Griffith and he was managed by Christ Chatrukas, who was known as Cumberland's "Jerry The Greek." Griffith has been employed as a barber in Washington, D. C. for the past ten years.

Gaby H Pays $182.80 In Tropical Second

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Irving Gushen's Five Star, with Charlie Burr riding, closed stoutly in the stretch to win the opener by a nose from Boling Bay, the pacemaker at Tropical Park today.

Third in the field of a dozen maiden 2-year-olds was Haldean.

Five Star, clocked in 1/07 4/5 for the 5½ furlongs, paid $11.10 straight.

The longest priced winner and the largest daily double payoff of the meeting developed when A. E. Christopher's Gaby H, with the Chilean, Jorge Contreras astride, upset calculations in the six-furlong second.

Gaby H., scored by a head from ULA and paid $182.80, $61.10 and $23.40 across the board. He formed a double which was worth $776.60, a Christmas present for 40 ticket-holders of the lucky combination of 9 and 1. Third in the sprint was Left Bank.

Syracuse Plans To Use Controversial Shift

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Syracuse will use its controversial shift against Alabama in the Orange Bowl if it seems advisable, says Coach Floyd Ben Schwartzwalder.

The Syracuse shift, which has been rapped as often as the one Notre Dame uses, is employed to keep opposing linemen "honest," said the Syracuse coach.

Schwartzwalder made the comment about the maneuver after receiving the Lambert Trophy, symbolic of Eastern collegiate football supremacy, last night at a Touchdown Club dinner.

Reduce Boxing Age

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 15 (AP)—The minimum legal age limit for amateur boxers was reduced from 18 to 17 by New Hampshire today.

Forty-three other states have a 17-year-old legal age limit for boxers.

Chuck Davey To Referee Sugar Bowl Matches

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15 (INS) — The Sugar Bowl's 1952 boxing tournament brings together teams from the University of Maryland and Syracuse University in New Orleans' Municipal Auditorium on December 27 with "Chuck" Davey as referee.

Maryland's Terrapins will be making their second appearance in the Mid-Winter Sports Carnival's boxing tournament. They defeated Michigan State, 4½ to 3½, in 1947 when Davey was in the Spartans' lineup.

The Syracuse pugilists will be making their third Sugar Bowl appearance.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W
A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Gaby H Pays $182.80 In Tropical Second

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Irving Gushen's Five Star, with Charlie Burr riding, closed stoutly in the stretch to win the opener by a nose from Boling Bay, the pacemaker at Tropical Park today.

Third in the field of a dozen maiden 2-year-olds was Haldean.

Five Star, clocked in 1/07 4/5 for the 5½ furlongs, paid $11.10 straight.

The longest priced winner and the largest daily double payoff of the meeting developed when A. E. Christopher's Gaby H, with the Chilean, Jorge Contreras astride, upset calculations in the six-furlong second.

Gaby H., scored by a head from ULA and paid $182.80, $61.10 and $23.40 across the board. He formed a double which was worth $776.60, a Christmas present for 40 ticket-holders of the lucky combination of 9 and 1. Third in the sprint was Left Bank.

Syracuse Plans To Use Controversial Shift

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Syracuse will use its controversial shift against Alabama in the Orange Bowl if it seems advisable, says Coach Floyd Ben Schwartzwalder.

The Syracuse shift, which has been rapped as often as the one Notre Dame uses, is employed to keep opposing linemen "honest," said the Syracuse coach.

Schwartzwalder made the comment about the maneuver after receiving the Lambert Trophy, symbolic of Eastern collegiate football supremacy, last night at a Touchdown Club dinner.

Reduce Boxing Age

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 15 (AP)—The minimum legal age limit for amateur boxers was reduced from 18 to 17 by New Hampshire today.

Forty-three other states have a 17-year-old legal age limit for boxers.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15 (INS)—One of the best of the 1952 murder mysteries is "Steel Trap," which Bert Friedlob produced. It's so good that the reviews were excellent.

Now Andrew Stone, who directed and wrote "Steel Trap," has another murder mystery for 20th. This one he is calling "Blueprint for Murder."

Gloria Graham, who owes 20th a picture, will be co-starred with William Lundagan.

This is really a thriller-chiller. A murder is committed to prevent a murder. Sounds like it has plenty of excitement. Michael Abel, who will direct, reports it will go before the cameras in March.

Faith Domergue has always bragged about how meticulous her husband, Hugo Fregonese, is in casting his pictures. Now she could cheerfully kill him for being such a stickler—and here's why:

Faith was up for a role in "Blowing Wild" at Warners and Producer Milton Sperling okayed her. But when her name was suggested to Fregonese, he said: "No. Faith is a good actress—but this role isn't right for her and vice versa."

So, now—when the company goes to Mexico City on location Faith will go along just for the ride as the director's wife.

It's no surprise that so many of our stars want to do a play on Broadway, usually, it's a shot in the arm.

Take the case of Vanessa Brown, who was literally dying on the vine as a movie actress in Hollywood. She's such a hit on Broadway in "Seven Year Itch" that she has a completely new career ahead of her.

You can imagine her delight in being offered a picture titled "Paradise" in London with Alex Guinness. Sidney Fox contacted Vanessa and she has agreed to do this when she goes to England in the early spring with the London company of "Seven Year Itch."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The Jimmy Roosevelts are getting away from the film colony in Beverly Hills by moving to Pasadena where they bought a home.

This ought to please the gals who put on too much weight. Deborah Kerr is backing the American distribution of English candies, said to be non-fattening.

"Million Dollar Mermaid" is the eighth picture directed by Mervyn Le Roy to play in the Music Hall in New York. In January, Merv celebrates his 25th anniversary as a director.

Bill Warfield, singer on Horace Heidt's TV show, looks like Jimmy Stewart so he will be tested by MGM.

Zsa Zsa Gabor received a letter from John Huston complimenting her on her performance in "Moulin Rouge," and saying he'll see her when the picture opens. "That," says Zsa Zsa, "ought to tell the world I never had a fight with him."

Claudette Colbert will spend Christmas and New Year's Eve in Paris. She leaves in January for Spain where she will make a picture. I wonder if she won't be just a little homesick.

Charlie Foy will have his Christmas in jail! He's taking a whole show there to entertain the inmates, and that I call a very nice thing to do.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

The Old Second Guess.. Soft Jobs

One day we were down at the race track, and I saw the scion of a well-known and wealthy family hustling around and betting here and there.

John Wheeler

"Does he come often?" I asked a friend of mine in the publicity department.

"Oh, yes," he answered, "every day. He works here."

"What does he do?"

"He watches the tote board, and, if the lights go out, he tells the electrician to put in a new fuse. How about that for a soft job?"

A British artist, H. M. Bateman, who used to draw for Punch, made a famous cartoon years ago called "The One Note Man." It consisted of a series of small sketches showing the musician arising and getting ready for work. He kisses his wife good-bye and takes off. He reports for duty, polishes up his flute and sits in the orchestra pit where he waits patiently. Finally the leader points at him with his stick, he blows on his instrument once, then folds it up and puts it away. When he arrives home, his missus meets him, greets him affectionately and asks,

"Did you have a hard day, dear?"

Then, of course, there is the old story of the umpires. Someone asked Tim Hurst if he didn't lead a tough life, being insulted all the time.

"Yes," he replied but you can't beat the hours."

One of the jobs I held when I worked on the old New York Herald was balloon editor, being put in charge of that single man department which was unique. Most newspapers do not have one, but our boss, James Gordon Bennett, who lived in Europe, was what might be called a balloon fancier if some else was flying it. He was also very fond of Pekingese dogs of which he had a small herd with him all the time.

My job was to arrive at 6 in the evening and stay on duty until two in the morning, in case there was any news about the gas bags such as one falling down — toys not counting. At 10, I would attend the news conference in the editor's office and report I didn't need any space. Then I would return to my room to continue my reading and thinking, since the paid leisure gave me a chance to improve my education. My predecessor had stepped out one night for a glass of beer at the saloon across the street, met a few friends, stayed for several, and got fired because that was the day a couple of balloon guys were killed. The AP copy lay neglected on his desk. We missed the story. Our competitors had it.

Once a year was the big event—the James Gordon Bennett balloon race in Europe. That night I was like the orchestra leader and not the one note man. It was my large evening.

"Three columns," I replied. He shook his head.

"Don't forget Mr. Bennett's race today, and two contestants are killed already." He agreed with me.

Some efficiency expert came in to look things over later and abolished the department when the boss' back was turned, but it was the easiest job I ever had and the word "work" would be a misnomer. Then they made me a baseball writer which was a pleasant change, although some of the Big Leaguers of those days were as large as balloons full of beer.

On thinking things over, I believe the softest job would be playing leading man to Marilyn Monroe in a romantic film, but so far no offers.

City Supports Canal Parkway

The city threw its full support behind the C & O Canal Parkway plan again yesterday in a resolution urging the state to acquire necessary land for the project.

Adopted unanimously by the Mayor and Council with the comment from Mayor Roy W. Eves that it "has the full support of citizens of the town," the resolution will be forwarded to the State Planning Commission and officials concerned with the project.

Last week, members of the Allegany County Delegation to the House of Delegates told the council they would lend their efforts to having the project pushed to completion.

The city, citing economic benefits, has been one of the prime backers of the parkway from here to Washington. However, strenuous objection has arisen in Washington, Frederick and Montgomery counties.

Noting that the C & O Canal had been a prime factor in the economic development and was an economic loss to Western Maryland, the resolution said the parkway will tend to restore and rehabilitate the economy.

Virginia Avenue PTA Plans Meeting Today

Mrs. Eileen Purdum will conduct devotions and Mrs. Eugene Furlow will submit a report to the recent PTA Conference held in Baltimore. A feature of the monthly meeting will be Christmas music played by James and Gerald Rowley.

Teachers will be in their respective rooms to greet parents at 7 p. m. and refreshments will be served in the school cafeteria.

Mrs. Cade Will Join Husband In France

Mrs. Gordon H. Cade Jr., and children, James and Sally, who had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Lippold, 903 Braddock Road, left Sunday night for New York, from where they will sail today on the Queen Elizabeth to join her husband in Paris, France.

Cade is a project engineer for the Raymond Concrete Pile Company, one of three American firms awarded contracts to supervise and construct extensive Air Force installations in France.

Local Paint Firm Gets Armory Bid

A local firm was low bidder on the contract to paint the interior and exterior of the State Armory here.

The Maryland Department of Public Improvements in Baltimore reported that upon opening bids Whitman and Cessna of 612 Woodside Avenue had the low figure of $2,692.

Other bidders were George V. Steele of 152 Thomas Street, $3,445, and Abco Construction Company, Baltimore, $3,595.

City Employes To Get Long Holiday This Year

City employes will get four days off at Christmas and New Years.

The Mayor and Council ordered yesterday that the several city departments wil close at 5 p. m. December 24, Christmas Eve, and reopen Monday, December 29 at 9 a. m. This is in line with Governor McKeldin's proclamation for the state holiday.

The same schedule will be followed New Years, closing December 31 at 5 p.m. and opening the following Monday.

McCrory's Will Issue Annual Yule Bonus

The McCrory Store, 112 Baltimore Street, will distribute a Christmas bonus to all regular employes as has been the custom of many years, according to F. W. Paul, company president.

The extra compensation is computed on the basis of years of service of the employes.

For twinkle-toe looks and twinkle-toe lightness dancing feet should always be pampered this way!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The teen crowd's square dances, Charleston and jitterbugging give a girl's feet more of a workout than a whole year of walking. Foot pains, aches and blisters can put a girl on the wallflower bench before an evening is half over unless she gives her feet some smart pre-spree coddling.

You'll want to do this anyway for twinkle-toe looks as well as twinkle-toe lightness, if you wear open slippers, and sheer hose or find bare-footed high jinks part of the party.

Dancing Feet

To tune up your feet in key with the fiddler's E string, start by scrubbing them with a stiff brush and a rich lather of soapsuds. This does more than cleanse and refresh them. It leaves them free of the spiny cuticle that wreaks havoc on nylons. Furthermore, as has happened on many a dance floor, should some heavy-footed male accidentally come down on your daintily shod toe, there's less danger of infection in case of nicked skin.

Next, push back the cuticle around the moons with an orange stick; trim the nails straight across and buff them to a high gloss. Or, if you are wearing fingernail polish, apply more of the same to your toes.

Cover any tender spots on your foot with a soft pad. Try one of the new sponge rubber protectors that can be washed with soap and reused. As a final flourish, dust both feet and shoes with moisture-repellent and deodorizing talc.

Important Decision

What slippers will you choose to wear? Be mighty choosey! Three-inch spikes may make you into a tall beauty but not into a beautiful dancer. Depending on your age and the formality of your dress, low-heeled pumps or slippers with a Louis heel will look and feel just right.

After the ball is over, give your feet the treatment that saves them for another whirl — a warm soap-and-water scrubbing. You'll sleep, then, and perchance dream of a teen queen pirouetting across the floor to the rapture of the stag line. And you know what? She'll turn out to be none other than you, Miss Twinkle Toes!

Area TV Fan Gets Rio, Brazil On Set

While dialing his television set Saturday afternoon Edgell Hockaday, whose home is about a mile from Short Gap school, brought in a program in Spanish or Portuguese from Rio De Janeiro. It was on Channel 4.

Previously the only reception he had been able to get was from the Johnstown station.

The South American telecast varied considerably from dim to brilliantly clear, according to Hockaday. For over an hour in midafternoon the foreign program continued and then faded out completely. One of the Rio offerings was a cooking demonstration none of which was intelligible to the Hockaday family. Afterwards Channel 4 was silent as ever and continued so Saturday night.

Sheehe Will Head AOH Unit Here

Officers of Allegany County Division 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, were elected Sunday at a meeting at St. Patrick's Parochial School.

Thomas H. Sheehe was named president; William V. Keegan, vice president; George P. Manley, recording secretary; John W. Rollins, Jr., financial secretary; R. Emmett Flynn, treasurer and Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, was named chaplain.

Michael F. Prendergast, who served as temporary president since the first meeting of the group two weeks ago, declined to accept the permanent presidency.

Due to the charter for the new AOH division failing to arrive in time for Sunday's meeting state officers postponed their visit here. A number of applications for membership were also approved at Sunday's session.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—Things one New Yorker thinks about:

A man who fascinates me at the moment is Rudy Turilli, who recently left Missouri to come to Broadway to hunt for cafe talent —to perform in a 26-mile-long cavern. It's called the Meramec Cavern and Rudy seeks pianists, organists or xylophonists to keep the tourists happy as they wend their way through the five-level pit. I have some nominees — Frankie Carle, Hazel Scott, Carmen Cavallero—for Mr. Turilli's cavern. Keep them as long as you want. . . . John Cameron Swayze is not my particular dish of tea as a TV newscaster, but he does have the distinction of being probably the first to practice that rather parasitic profession. Started back in Kansas City in 1933, so you can see he had a long head start on the other boys who ruffle papers, clear their throats, look up pontifically into the camera and say "Well, here's the news tonight as I see it . . ."

Two books to recommend today: "Double Trouble," by NBC cameramen (and twins) Charles and Eugene Jones, and Charlie Samuel's newest, "Lady on the Beach". The Jones boys—that's their standard name, were covering the war on bloody Iwo Jima before they were 20, and in the Korean War they have to their credit parachute jumps behind the enemy lines, the first combat films from a jet fighter, a bayonet charge on Pyongyang, etc. They've both been wounded in action and they've been fortunate in getting Dale Kramer, who wrote the recent book on New Yorker editor Harold Ross, to work with them on "Double Trouble". Kramer does a tight, skillful job of writing . . . Samuels, of course, is the man who wrote the Ethel Waters book. "Lady on the Beach" is an absorbing tale of a female beachcomber and her ex-Marine sergeant husband, and to get the story Charlie lived with the 'combers for six weeks.

Man I don't envy is Gaston Lauryssen, who manages the Ritz-Carlton Corporation and directs its Carlton House. That makes him the successor to the late Cesar Ritz, once described by King Edward VII as the "king of hotel-keepers". A tough spot to fill. They tell me Lauryssen is doing nicely, however, and I guess it figures. He speaks five languages. How can a man fail when he speaks five languages? . . . I caught two of the three acts of Margaret Sullavan in "The Deep Blue Sea" the other afternoon and I guess that about wraps up my love affair with Maggie. Pretty bad. I suspect the play of being a good one and now I want to fly to London to see Peggy Ashcroft in it over there. Golly—to fall in love with Hepburn and Sullavan the same autumn. When they were in their twenties their stylized playing intrigued me. Now, I am afraid, it bores me.

My favorite story this week deals with the two drunks who found themselves walking the tracks of the subway shuttle between Times Square and Grand Central Terminal. Getting off them finally, one said "Gee, thass the longest stairway I ever climbed in my life" and the other replied "I d'in min' the length so much, but those banisters were so low!" . . . New York City is this big: Up to November 23 of this year, 33,769 persons were hurt and 491 killed in 25,868 auto accidents within the limits of the town . . . We have had this autumn theatrical companies giving performances in French and in Greek.

The sad word today is that Edwardt Balod, the Latvian who owns the six-foot, thousand-dollar curbstone telescope set up nightly on 42nd Street between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, is ready to sell out his business. Balod is tired and wants a job where he can sit down. Has his own theory about flying saucers; says he has seen two over Bryant Park and that they can be made for five dollars. "Somebody on roof tops make them and fool the people," he says with quiet confidence . . . Macy's now has four Doberman pinschers to help out as night watchmen over its two million square feet of floor space. Likely part of their duties will be to watch Gimbel's, too.

LAST DAY "ASSIGNMENT PARIS" with Dana Andrews

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15 (INS)—One of the best of the 1952 murder mysteries is "Steel Trap," which Bert Friedlob produced. It's so good that the reviews were excellent.

Now Andrew Stone, who directed and wrote "Steel Trap," has another murder mystery for 20th. This one he is calling "Blueprint for Murder."

Gloria Graham, who owes 20th a picture, will be co-starred with William Lundagan.

This is really a thriller-chiller. A murder is committed to prevent a murder. Sounds like it has plenty of excitement. Michael Abel, who will direct, reports it will go before the cameras in March.

Faith Domergue has always bragged about how meticulous her husband, Hugo Fregonese, is in casting his pictures. Now she could cheerfully kill him for being such a stickler—and here's why:

Faith was up for a role in "Blowing Wild" at Warners and Producer Milton Sperling okayed her. But when her name was suggested to Fregonese, he said: "No. Faith is a good actress—but this role isn't right for her and vice versa."

So, now—when the company goes to Mexico City on location Faith will go along just for the ride as the director's wife.

It's no surprise that so many of our stars want to do a play on Broadway, usually, it's a shot in the arm.

Take the case of Vanessa Brown, who was literally dying on the vine as a movie actress in Hollywood. She's such a hit on Broadway in "Seven Year Itch" that she has a completely new career ahead of her.

You can imagine her delight in being offered a picture titled "Paradise" in London with Alex Guiness. Sidney Fox contacted Vanessa and she has agreed to do this when she goes to England in the early spring with the London company of "Seven Year Itch."

I am very glad the motion picture is honoring Adolph Zukor on his 80th birthday. I don't know anyone who more deserves this honor.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The Jimmy Roosevelts are getting away from the film colony in Beverly Hills by moving to Pasadena where they bought a home.

This ought to please the gals who put on too much weight. Deborah Kerr is backing the American distribution of English candies, said to be non-fattening.

Well, Dorothy Shay should be able to do this, that is write a definition of Park Avenue hillbilly for the Encyclopedia Britannica.

"Million Dollar Mermaid" is the eighth picture directed by Mervyn Le Roy to play in the Music Hall in New York. In January, Merv celebrates his 25th anniversary as a director.

Bill Warfield, singer on Horace Heidt's TV show, looks like Jimmy Stewart so he will be tested by MGM.

Zsa Zsa Gabor received a letter from John Huston complimenting her on her performance in "Moulin Rouge," and saying he'll see her when the picture opens. "That," says Zsa Zsa, "ought to tell the world I never had a fight with him."

Claudette Colbert will spend Christmas and New Year's Eve in Paris. She leaves in January for Spain where she will make a picture. I wonder if she won't be just a little homesick.

Charlie Foy will have his Christmas in jail! He's taking a whole show there to entertain the inmates, and that I call a very nice thing to do.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

The Old Second Guess.. Soft Jobs

One day we were down at the race track, and I saw the scion of a well-known and wealthy family hustling around and betting here and there.

John Wheeler

"Does he come often?" I asked a friend of mine in the publicity department.

"Oh, yes," he answered, "every day. He works here."

"What does he do?"

"He watches the tote board, and, if the lights go out, he tells the electrician to put in a new fuse. How about that for a soft job?"

A British artist, H. M. Bateman, who used to draw for Punch, made a famous cartoon years ago called "The One Note Man." It consisted of a series of small sketches showing the musician arising and getting ready for work. He kisses his wife good-bye and takes off. He reports for duty, polishes up his flute and sits in the orchestra pit where he waits patiently. Finally the leader points at him with his stick, he blows on his instrument once, then folds it up and puts it away. When he arrives home, his missus meets him, greets him affectionately and asks,

"Did you have a hard day, dear?"

Then, of course, there is the old story of the umpires. Someone asked Tim Hurst if he didn't lead a tough life, being insulted all the time.

"Yes," he replied but you can't beat the hours."

One of the jobs I held when I worked on the old New York Herald was balloon editor, being put in charge of that single man department which was unique. Most newspapers do not have one, but our boss, James Gordon Bennett, who lived in Europe, was what might be called a balloon fancier if some else was flying it. He was also very fond of Pekingese dogs of which he had a small herd with him all the time.

My job was to arrive at 6 in the evening and stay on duty until two in the morning, in case there was any news about the gas bags such as one falling down — toys not counting. At 10, I would attend the news conference in the editor's office and report I didn't need any space. Then I would return to my room to continue my reading and thinking, since the paid leisure gave me a chance to improve my education. My predecessor had stepped out one night for a glass of beer at the saloon across the street, met a few friends, stayed for several, and got fired because that was the day a couple of balloon guys were killed. The AP copy lay neglected on his desk. We missed the story. Our competitors had it.

Once a year was the big event—the James Gordon Bennett balloon race in Europe. That night I was like the orchestra leader and not the one note man. It was my large evening.

"What do you need?" Bill Harris, the news editor, asked me.

"Three columns," I replied. He shook his head.

Getting off them finally, one said "Gee, thass the longest stairway I ever climbed in my life" and the other replied "I d'in min' the length so much, but those bannisters were so low!" . . . New York City is this big: Up to November 23 of this year, 33,769 persons were hurt and 491 killed in 25,868 auto accidents within the limits of the town . . . We have had this autumn theatrical companies giving performances in French and in Greek.

The sad word today is that Edwardt Balod, the Latvian who owns the six-foot, thousand-dollar curbstone telescope set up nightly on 42nd Street between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, is ready to sell out his business. Balod is tired and wants a job where he can sit down. Has his own theory about flying saucers; says he has seen two over Bryant Park and that they can be made for five dollars. "Somebody on roof tops make them and fool the people," he says with quiet confidence . . . Macy's now has four Doberman pinschers to help out as night watchmen over its two million square feet of floor space. Likely part of their duties will be to watch Gimbel's, too.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

TRY ONE RISK, NOT TWO

IT SHOULD be an axiom that taking a single risk is a more promising course than hazarding two dangers. If certain bridge players realize that fact, you would never know it from some of their actions. They violate that simple principle in many ways, sometimes trying unnecessary finesses, sometimes finessing the wrong card, sometimes needlessly straining to establish a suit when it can't help them particularly, and in a variety of other matters.

	♠ K J 9 8 3 ♥ Q 9 5 4 3 ♦ K 10 6 ♣ None
♠ Q 4 ♥ 10 6 ♦ 3 2 ♣ A K Q J 9 7 6	N W E S	♠ A 10 7 5 ♥ None ♦ A Q 9 5 4 ♣ 10 8 5 4

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♠	1 ♥	2 ♣
4 ♥	4 ♠	Pass	5 ♣
5 ♥	6 ♣	6 ♥	Dbl.

At a few tables in the big social duplicate, East essayed 7-Clubs by his partner, and West managed to make the contract by finessing diamonds, ruffing one and discarding a spade on the others, of course along the way taking out South's trumps and ruffing two hearts in dummy.

At two tables the bidding went a little differently, winding up with South in the low—for this deal—contract of 5-Hearts, which West doubled. At both of those, West opened the club K, which was ruffed by dummy's heart 3. The heart A and K cleared trumps in each case, and South was ready then for the crucial move of the deal, his effort to avoid two spade losers.

Both declarers then led the spade 2, but one of them then finessed the J and the other the 9. Where the J was used, it obliged East to use his A in order to win. East had to score his diamond A at once, or he would never win with it, since dummy's spades were now sure to give South all the diamond discards he wanted. Where the spade 9 was finessed, the 10 won, followed by the spade A and diamond A to set the contract. The difference basically between these two finesses was that the J finesser had to find only the Q with West, whereas the other had to find both the Q and 10 there to make his contract. The latter had taken two risks where only one was necessary.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

WITH EISENHOWER ABOARD U.S.S. HELENA (delayed) (INS)—A helicopter is the world's homeliest-looking means of transportation. It acts a great deal like a praying mantis with the hives. It can be outsped by a cheap car. At altitudes over 5,000 feet it is inclined to fits of vertigo.

But ask the man who drives one! Ask the man who has been picked up behind enemy lines by one! Ask the admiral who will turn an entire task force around in order to facilitate the landing of one of these ungainly bugs. Ask Lt. Wilson A. Dakan of Fort Worth, Tex., who at 38 has a son at Oregon State and feels he's too old to fly anything except his beloved egg-beater. Or ask Lt. William B. Collins of Long Beach, Cal., holder of the D.F.C.

Better not put a rap on the helicopter in front of men like that. They're part and parcel of a new breed of airmen, proud of their machine's bewildering versatility, its perplexing but wonderful ability to chug slowly through blizzards of enemy fire, and the placid manner in which it comes home to roost in places hardly the size of a boxing ring.

Dakan and Collins brought John Foster Dulles and other members of Gen. Eisenhower's airborne brain trust aboard the fantail of the Helena. Some portion of the world kept its fingers crossed as the two pilots, alternating at the controls, performed their historic chore in a beat-up but beloved Sikorsky (circa 1947) named "Last Chance Taxi." Dakan won first grabs at the statesmen on the beach in a game of acey ducey with Collins the night before.

The boys took their chores in stride. Nobody was shooting at them except Frank Jurkoski of International News Photos, the "pool" cameraman on this trip, and Dave Oliver, "pool" newsreel ace for Pathe. Usually somebody is shooting at Dakan and Collins with real, live, hot steel. That's true of a great proportion of their fellow fliers from Helicopter Squadron No. 1, whose home base is Ream Field, San Ysidro, Cal.

Squadron 1 had picked up 454 men from behind enemy lines in Korea or out of the water as of the end of last month. The score then stood 454-to-1, there having been only one squadron casualty.

This recent tour of the Helena into North Korean waters was a fairly quiet one for Dakan and Collins. Dakan chummed low over the water within pistol range of the feverish enemy for long enough to slip a kind of horse-collar around the neck of a heavyweight Army Ranger and hoist him to safety. The Ranger, part of a behind-the-lines group, had been in the shockingly cold water for more than an hour. A Korean trying to swim to safety with him died of the cold.

Collins went out one night just before dark, plainly not a thing to do in a helicopter, fanned 37 miles inland in search of a downed flier whose position had been lost and stayed in there living through a veritable wall of anti-aircraft fire until ordered by the admiral to return to the Helena, if he could find it. He made perhaps the first night landing ever achieved on the skimpy fantail of a cruiser. He had been under fire for an hour and ten minutes of his hour and three-quarters aloft.

Oh, they have a few other chores, too: Like hovering over a target and directing battleship or cruiser shells in on it; actually landing beside a group of North Koreans who were taking a downed Navy pilot prisoner and shooting him free of them; and running the mail; and with the aid of Chaplain Ben Alexander of Murphreesboro, Tenn., helping save the children in a Korean orphanage by coaxing the good-hearted boys on the Helena out of 700 pounds of clothing and whirring it over to the freezing kids . . . And serving as hackies for the likes of J. F. Dulles.

It's a new breed, and don't go saying nothing about that there jalopy they fly.

WITH EISENHOWER ABOARD U.S.S. HELENA (delayed) (INS)—A helicopter is the world's homeliest-looking means of transportation. It acts a great deal like a praying mantis with the hives. It can be outsped by a cheap car. At altitudes over 5,000 feet it is inclined to fits of vertigo.

—said privately, to this correspondent the other day:

"One big difficulty about government labor agencies is that the staffs themselves tend to be pro-labor. Labor economists and labor lawyers start out with a pro-labor bias when they begin to study labor economics and labor law. Thus, when cases are actually worked upon, labor has the advantage of having analyses made by persons whose predisposition is that labor can do no wrong. It was difficult to prove but one of the charges made against certain public members of recent Wage Stabilization Boards was that their professional interest in the making of arbitration contracts kept them pro labor. If they were not pro-labor, they would be blacklisted by labor unions and rendered unacceptable later for selection to lush arbitration posts that pay big fees."

When arbitrators are chosen, so-called "neutrals" who have acted as arbitrators before are placed on the suggested panels. While, of course, both sides pay the arbitration fees, an arbitrator who hasn't been pro-labor in previous settlements is rarely accepted by labor again. Management can't insist on fair-minded men for arbitrators or mediators because labor would not agree and strikes would never end. It's a vicious practice and deserves a thoroughgoing inquiry by Congress because inevitably there will be labor-management disputes on which the facts, if not the recommendations, will have to be developed by "impartial" boards.

City Will Study Requests For Pool Licenses

Action on two applications for pool room licenses, one at 164 Baltimore Street, were tabled for a week for further study by the Mayor and Council yesterday morning.

Application for the Baltimore Street pool hall was made by Michael F. Yantorno Jr., who was present at the session and ready to answer questions. He said he had been in service twice and was anxious to get his business started. Yantorno explained he was a barber but his hands "broke out" when he barbered.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said he "had all the answers" but Mayor Roy W. Eves asserted not all members of the council had had a chance to study the application and that was the reason for delaying action.

The Baltimore Street address, which the application said is owned by the Lorraine Eisenberg estate, had been subject of a debate several weeks ago when the application of Walter W. Oglebay for a pool room license there was rejected.

The council took action on several other matters yesterday.

The salary of James F. Twigg, clerk in the Water Department was increased $8.25 from $242.55 to $250.80 a month to bring it in line with others paid for positions with similar duties.

Two bids were received for a truck and snow plow for the Municipal Airport and referred to the Mayor and Airport Commission. Bidding on the equipment were St. George Motor Company, $6,667.09; and Light and Decker Company, $5,994.72.

Meter Collector William H. Buley reported an increase in meter receipts of $45.41 for the week November 30-December 7.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 86,680,000 gallons as compared to 87,340,000 the same period a year ago. The daily average was 12,332,000. The water level at Lake Gordon is five feet, five inches below the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon six feet, eight inches below.

Paperworkers Set Wage Negotiations

Wage negotiations between officials of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and representatives of the United Paperworkers of America (CIO) will be reopened Tuesday, December 30, at 10 a. m. at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, according to Harry McGowan, president of Luke Local 676.

The contract recently negotiated between the company and locals at the Luke, Williamsburg, Pa., and Covington, Va. plants provided that wage negotiations could be reopened at the end of 30 days. McGowan stated Harry Scott, area CIO director,

—said privately, to this correspondent the other day:

"One big difficulty about government labor agencies is that the staffs themselves tend to be prolabor. Labor economists and labor lawyers start out with a prolabor bias when they begin to study labor economics and labor law. Thus, when cases are actually worked upon, labor has the advantage of having analyses made by persons whose predisposition is that labor can do no wrong. It was difficult to prove but one of the charges made against certain public members of recent Wage Stabilization Boards was that their professional interest in the making of arbitration contracts kept them pro labor. If they were not pro-labor, they would be blacklisted by labor unions and rendered unacceptable later for selection to lush arbitration posts that pay big fees."

When arbitrators are chosen, so-called "neutrals" who have acted as arbitrators before are placed on the suggested panels. While, of course, both sides pay the arbitration fees, an arbitrator who hasn't been pro-labor in previous settlements is rarely accepted by labor again. Management can't insist on fair-minded men for arbitrators or mediators because labor would not agree and strikes would never end. It's a vicious practice and deserves a thoroughgoing inquiry by Congress because inevitably there will be labor-management disputes on which the facts, if not the recommendations, will have to be developed by "impartial" boards.

City Will Study Requests For Pool Licenses

Action on two applications for pool room licenses, one at 164 Baltimore Street, were tabled for a week for further study by the Mayor and Council yesterday morning.

Application for the Baltimore Street pool hall was made by Michael F. Yantorno Jr., who was present at the session and ready to answer questions. He said he had been in service twice and was anxious to get his business started. Yantorno explained he was a barber but his hands "broke out" when he barbered.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said he "had all the answers" but Mayor Roy W. Eves asserted not all members of the council had had a chance to study the application and that was the reason for delaying action.

The Baltimore Street address, which the application said is owned by the Lorraine Eisenberg estate, had been subject of a debate several weeks ago when the application of Walter W. Oglebay for a pool room license there was rejected.

Council also deferred action on another application for a pool room by Nicholas Peterson for 19 North Liberty Street.

The council took action on several other matters yesterday.

Local Man Fatally Hurt In Construction Mishap

R. L. Brown Struck By Falling Iron

A Cumberland construction worker was killed instantly yesterday morning while working on a building project at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper plant at Luke.

The victim was identified as Robert L. Brown, 32, of 11½ Fifth Street. Death according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, was caused by a crushed chest.

Brown was pronounced dead at 11:40 a. m. by Dr. Robert W. Bess, plant physician, ten minutes after the accident. The structural iron worker, according to Dr. Deming, was working in an oblong iron casing removing an iron conveyor belt. While leaning over he was struck by a piece of channel iron which dropped from a nearby crane.

Two Cranes Collide

Two cranes, of the George F. Hazlewood Company were facing one another as dismantling work was being done on an old chemical plant building. A large crane, operated by Robert Jones, RD 4, Red Hill, swung around and caught the top of the boom of the smaller crane causing the 150 pound piece of channel iron to become disconnected, Deming said, and drop about 60 feet onto the victim, hitting him below the neck.

The smaller crane was operated by Joseph F. McCoy, of Hyndman. Foreman was Arthur Long, Potomac Park. Brown has been working on the job for the past two weeks.

On the scene of the accident during the investigation were Dr. Deming, County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and Deputy Sheriff William J. Chappell.

LELAND E. SPENCER

Former Resident Gets High Post With Goodyear

Leland E. Spencer Is Rubber Authority

Leland E. Spencer, formerly of 119 North Allegany Street, chief, synthetic rubber division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, has accepted the post of assistant to President E. J. Thomas, of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Akron.

Spencer, who was formerly vice president of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company from September, 1949, to January, 1951, has held several important posts with Goodyear Company since 1926, as well as with the U. S. Government.

Former Kelly Official

In January of 1951, he left the Kelly Springfield Tire Company here to accept a director's post of the Rubber Division of the National Production Authority, Washington. As director of the rubber division of the NPA and as head of the RFC's synthetic division, Spencer has become nationally known as a rubber authority.

Before coming to Cumberland, he had directed commerce and industry in the United States and British occupation zones in Germany.

Spencer's first government assignment came in 1942, when he was granted leave of absence from the Goodyear Company to serve in the rubber director's office of the War Production Board in Washington, where he was in charge of allocation of materials and government orders for tires and other rubber products.

He was later made deputy director and served in that position until 1945 when he left to become manager of the Goodyear's factory in Topeka, Kan. Later he was again given leave of absence to assume the international role following World War II.

Spencer's European position was described as "the tremendous job of leading the economic rehabilitation of Bizonia, Germany, for nearly two years."

At first he was given only one year leave of absence but at the request of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the administrator, who expressed keen desire to return to America, he agreed to spend a second 12 months in the German position.

Industrial Service

At the time of his arrival in the British and U. S. zones the industrial output based on a 1936 normal of 100 was 36. After his term there, the industrial capacity of the zone was 89 and rising rapidly.

A member of the Goodyear organization for the past 26 years, Spencer started with the company in its Akron plant, serving in production control statistics and forecasting departments until 1939.

He was then made manager of merchandise planning. In 1945 he was appointed manager of the Topeka plant, newest and most modern tire factory in the nation. That appointment followed a three-year tour of duty with the government during the World War II years.

Spencer is a native of Meritt, N. C., and was a one-time professional baseball player, holding the centerfield position on several North Carolina and Ohio professional teams.

He plans to move his family from Washington to Akron in the near future. He and Mrs. Spencer have four children. Their oldest son, Marvin, who is 22, is serving with the Navy. The other children are Joyce Ann, 20; Larry Evans, 15, and Thomas McKinley, nine.

City Officials Table Order For Clerk Position

The Mayor and Council yesterday tabled for one week a request that the Civil Service Commission conduct an examination for a clerk-stenographer in the collector's office.

The delay was agreed upon after Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, said she did not fully understand the order.

Presented by Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan the order called for the discontinuance of temporary employment of a clerk in the collector's office and the appointment of a clerk-stenographer in the Finance Department assigned to the tax office at a salary of $192.50 a month.

Commissioner Keegan said the order arose from the resignation of Mrs. Mary Stilwell, who had been working in the collector's office for six months of the year and during vacations.

He said the new clerk will serve in the Water and Collector's offices and that the Water and Finance departments have agreed to share the cost of a full time worker.

Officials commented that nobody has been hired in the Water Department to replace Warren Mellinger, water waste inspector, who retired, or the late J. Theodore George, former assistant superintendent in the department.

Businessmen Hear Industrial Director

Albert H. Hargreaves, director of industrial development for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, yesterday explained the industrial promotion program here during a talk before the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association.

Hargreaves urged backing of a determined effort to bring new industries into the area. He pointed out to the businessmen what the Chamber of Commerce is trying to do in Cumberland and explained the techniques which will be used in the program.

The industrial director also suggested ways in which local organizations and interested individuals might help in the progress of the Queen City.

Election Shows Maryland As America In Miniature

The casual observer probably never would have noticed it, but a review of the election figures has Maryland living up to its tag as "America In Miniature" in worthy fashion.

The final, official figures for the country show that President-Elect Eisenhower received 55.1 per cent of the total vote.

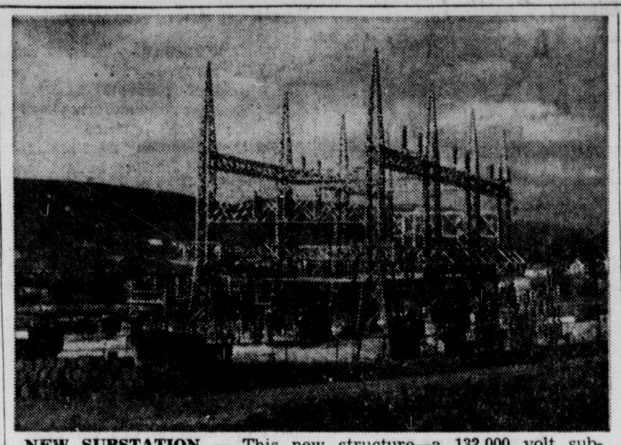
Maryland gave the general 55.4 per cent of its vote.

Only two states were closer, Florida and Minnesota.

The figures again place the state in a position of saying—sometimes—"what happens to me happens to the country."

Since 1864, Maryland has been on the winning side in 14 of the 22 general elections. In the past 40 years, the state has been on the winning side in all but one—in 1948 when it went for Gov. Dewey, Republican, while President Truman swept back into the White House.

But to forestall political soothsayers who may place too much stock in Maryland's being a bellwether, observers are quick to say—remember '48.



NEW SUBSTATION — This new structure—a 132,000 volt substation—is located at Ridgeley and is the eastern terminus of the Potomac Edison's million dollar Albright-Ridgeley transmission line.

CENTER—At this point, newly-assigned PE subdispatchers are helping to provide PE customers with more reliable service. This subdispatching center, located at Ridgeley, is adjacent to PE's big new 132,000 volt substation.

SUBDISPATCHERS—Assigned to posts at the new $700,000 Ridgeley substation and subdispatching center are John Cook, Jr., Arthur Shanholtz, James Dean and Edgar Caldwell. These men have taken over subdispatching duties for Potomac Edison at the new installation.

PE Opens New Subdispatch Facilities At Ridgeley, W. Va.

As part of its continuing program of service improvement, the Potomac Edison Company has put into operation a new $700,000 subdispatching center at Ridgeley, just across the Potomac River from the generating station here.

The opening of the new local installation this month provides subdispatching centers at each corner of PE's power triangle — Front Royal, Va., Cumberland and Williamsport.

It is planned in the near future to further strengthen the system dispatching facilities by relocating the Williamsport system dispatchers at the new Marlowe, W. Va., substation, now under construction. Here, more reliable communications between the dispatchers and subdispatchers at Ridgeley and Front Royal will be possible.

Ridgeley's subdispatchers are supervising the transmission system in PE's western division. These subdispatchers — all local men — are John Cook, Jr., James Dean, Arthur Shanholtz and Edgar Caldwell.

Robert Yonker Buys Green Ridge Timber

Robert E. Yonker of Flintstone submitted the high bid for some 30,000 feet of timber from the Green Ridge State Forest, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

Elevator Operators Add Holiday Tone To Elavatin' Job

Two smiling and cheerful elevator operators in the Liberty Turst Building have added another service for their passengers— a Christmas atmosphere including music and decorations.

The two familiar figures, Mrs. Mabel Baker and Miss Regina McGregor, both of Hyndman, Pa., have decorated their elevator cars in holiday fashion with music from a mysterious source.

As passengers enter the elevators they stand amid Yule decorations, Nativity scenes and the traditional red and green colors. Always they ask, "where's the music coming from?"

Mrs. Baker has placed a radio on the top of her elevator car, while Miss McGregor uses a "musical church" for holiday tunes.

Workers on the six floors of the building said the two operators decorate their cars annually and on other holidays use appropriate signs and ornaments. On just plain ordinary days, the elevators carry a sign with the message. "Smile," which goes to prove any job is interesting if the employes are interesting.

Former Local Man Will Take Amcelle Post

Appointment of R. Findley Thompson, Narrows, Va., as assistant plant manager at Amcelle was announced yesterday by L. L. Helmer, plant manager.

Thompson will assume his new position today.

A native of Staunton, Va., Thompson is a graduate of Davidson College, where he received a B. S. degree in chemistry in 1926.

Originally employed at Amcelle in 1927, Thompson served as a chemist and chemical supervisor, being assistant superintendent of the Cellulose Acetate Department at the time of his transfer to the Celco plant in 1942.

He is married to the former Elizabeth Brengle of this city. They have two daughters. Thompson has been active in civic and musical circles at Narrows. He served as city councilman there for eight years and as vice mayor for four years. He is secretary of the Narrows Kiwanis Club and a member of the Board of Stewards of the Methodist Church.

'Marg' Conner, Veteran Insurance Agent, Retires After 34 Years With Monumental

Miss Margaret Conner, one of Cumberland's best-known women, is retiring after nearly 35 years of service as a Monumental Life Insurance Company agent.

Fellow-workers gave a dinner in her honor last night at St. Luke's Lutheran Church hall. They gave her an engraved wrist watch, a handbag and a billfold with a sum of money.

The presentation was by Thomas Carroll, home office executive from Baltimore, who got his start in the life insurance field when Miss Conner recommended him for a job with Monumental.

Special guests at the dinner were John Metzger of Frostburg and Irvin Lowery of Ellerslie, both retired employes. Mrs. Duke Burger was piano accompanist for group singing led by Darrell Zeller. Downie Price of LaVale was soloist.

Miss Conner, better-known as "Marg," has had a lively and varied career since she began working as a saleslady at local stores before World War I.

In 1917, she took over a 26-mile rural mail route at Flintstone, which she covered by horse and buggy. In the blizzard of 1917-18, she made her rounds on horseback.

When Marg started to work with Monumental in 1918, her territory covered North Cumberland, Ellerslie, Corriganville, Mt. Savage Road and LaVale to Allegany Grove. The area between Ellerslie and Cumberland was a "walking beat."

Although she has no definite plans for retirement, Marg says she expects to take a part-time job somewhere after she turns in her account book.

"There's no point in getting old just because you're 65," she says.

GIFTS FOR "MARG"—Miss Margaret Conner, retiring after nearly 35 years as an agent for Monumental Life Insurance Company, is presented gifts by Thomas Carroll, home office executive from Baltimore, at a dinner given her by fellow workers last night at St. Luke's Lutheran Church hall. Carroll got his start in the insurance field when Miss Conner urged him to ask for a position, then recommended him for the job.

Snow, Sleet Reaches Area, Warm Weather Seen Today

Although Cumberland had experienced only cold weather up to late last night, the area to the west, southwest and north was having a variety of disagreeable weather varying from slight mist to sleet and snow.

Worst of the area weather reports came from Tucker County, W. Va. At Davis, some 14 inches of snow had been recorded by 7:30 o'clock last night and it was still falling. A seasonal low temperature of seven degrees below zero was reported early yesterday morning.

Thomas reported a thermometer reading of 18 degrees at 10 o'clock last night and sleet was falling on nine inches of snow, making travel extremely hazardous. Parsons had a similar report of sleet on top of snow. The many spectators at last night's Parsons-Coalton basketball game found driving difficult as they headed home.

Highways Cindered

At Bedford, Pa., state police said a slight mist was falling at 10 o'clock but had not made driving dangerous. Some few spots were still icy from previous snow but most roads had been cindered and could be traveled readily.

Other points where sleet was reported included Connellsville and Deal, Pa. However, Rockwood, Pa., which had one inch of snow earlier in the day, reported only cloudy skies last night.

In Garrett County, six inches of snow was on the ground and it was snowing lightly late last night. Heavy wind was causing drifts to pile up quickly in some spots. Roads were icy in spots but chains were not considered necessary. State Roads Commission cinder crews were working.

Cold In Cumberland

Here in Cumberland the official temperature ranged between a low of 24 and a high of 29. Traces of snow were blowing periodically during the day.

For today, the outlook was for warmer weather by afternoon. A warm air mass was moving eastward and was expected to settle over the state by afternoon.

At Blazer, W. Va., mercury was measured at 24 degrees with sleet falling over six inches of snow which fell earlier.

Terra Alta, W. Va., was also getting sleet last night accompanied by a reading of 20 degrees. Between 10 and 12 inches of snow has fallen in that section Sunday and yesterday.

At Orleans Road and Harper's Ferry, weather was cloudy with thermometers up on the 31-degree mark.

Over 20,000 Attend Open House At First Federal

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Cumberland yesterday opened its brand-new $500,000 Baltimore Street building to an enthusiastic crowd which was estimated at 20,000 persons.

Officials of the association said that many people streamed in between the time the doors opened at 9 a. m. and closing time, which was 9 p. m. Except for a four-hour lull between the day and night openings, the crowds poured into the building in a steady stream.

The opening was a big event in every way. Some 2,000 roses were presented to women guests in the first few hours after the opening, but the supply soon was exhausted as patrons and passersby kept filing through the new building.

Some 15,000 brightly-colored yardsticks were given away all day and evening. Officials and employes of the firm were busy explaining features of the futuristic building to visitors.

The three-story building, most modern in the city, combines glass, plush carpets, wood panels and curved floor plans into an attractive but functional design.

In spite of the rush of visitors yesterday, company officials said the association did considerable business and picked up several new accounts.

W. Md. Railway Petition To Be Heard Jan. 15

Seeks To Drop Passenger Trains

The Maryland Public Service Commission has set Jan. 15 for a hearing on the Western Maryland Railway's application to discontinue passenger service in Maryland.

The trains operate between Baltimore, Cumberland and intermediate points. The railroad says it's losing money on them.

Letters Protest

A commission spokesman said the commission has received a number of letters of protests from groups and individuals and several petitions formally opposing the discontinuance of the trains. One, by the Baltimore County Commissioners, asks that the railroad's petition be dismissed.

The hearing is set for 10:30 a. m. in the commission's offices in Baltimore.

In its application, the company said the trains have been operated at a steadily increasing loss since the end of World War II because of a drop in passenger traffic and a jump in the cost of operation. It estimated the revenue received from their operation "is insufficient to meet the direct out-of-pocket expenses by approximately $450,000 a year."

Filed Nov. 13

The application, filed Nov. 13, asked permission to take off these trains: daily except Sunday, No. 2 and 3 between Baltimore and Cumberland, Nos. 5 and 6 between Baltimore and Hagerstown and Nos. 20 and 21 between Baltimore and Union Bridge. It also wants to eliminate a Saturday only train, No. 121 from Baltimore to Union Bridge and Sunday trains Nos. 103 and 104 between Baltimore and Hagerstown.

Spencer, who was formerly vice president of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company from September, 1949, to January, 1951, has held several important posts with Goodyear Company since 1926, as well as with the U. S. Government.

Former Kelly Official

In January of 1951, he left the Kelly Springfield Tire Company here to accept a director's post of the Rubber Division of the National Production Authority, Washington. As director of the rubber division of the NPA and as head of the RFC's synthetic division, Spencer has become nationally known as a rubber authority.

Before coming to Cumberland, he had directed commerce and industry in the United States and British occupation zones in Germany.

Spencer's first government assignment came in 1942, when he was granted leave of absence from the Goodyear Company to serve in the rubber director's office of the War Production Board in Washington, where he was in charge of allocation of materials and government orders for tires and other rubber products.

He was later made deputy director and served in that position until 1945 when he left to become manager of the Goodyear's factory in Topeka, Kan. Later he was again given leave of absence to assume the international role following World War II.

Spencer's European position was described as "the tremendous job of leading the economic rehabilitation of Bizonia, Germany, for nearly two years."

At first he was given only one year leave of absence but at the request of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the administrator, who expressed keen desire to return to America, he agreed to spend a second 12 months in the German position.

Industrial Service

At the time of his arrival in the British and U. S. zones the industrial output based on a 1936 normal of 100 was 36. After his term there, the industrial capacity of the zone was 89 and rising rapidly.

A member of the Goodyear organization for the past 26 years, Spencer started with the company in its Akron plant, serving in production control statistics and forecasting departments until 1939.

He was then made manager of merchandise planning. In 1945 he was appointed manager of the Topeka plant, newest and most modern tire factory in the nation. That appointment followed a three-year tour of duty with the government during the World War II years.

Spencer is a native of Meritt, N. C., and was a one-time professional baseball player, holding the centerfield position on several North Carolina and Ohio professional teams.

He plans to move his family from Washington to Akron in the near future. He and Mrs. Spencer have four children. Their oldest son, Marvin, who is 22, is serving with the Navy. The other children are Joyce Ann, 20; Larry Evans, 15, and Thomas McKinley, nine.

City Officials Table Order For Clerk Position

The Mayor and Council yesterday tabled for one week a request that the Civil Service Commission conduct an examination for a clerk-stenographer in the collector's office.

The delay was agreed upon after Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, said she did not fully understand the order.

Presented by Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan the order called for the discontinuance of temporary employment of a clerk in the collector's office and the appointment of a clerk-stenographer in the Finance Department assigned to the tax office at a salary of $192.50 a month.

Commissioner Keegan said the order arose from the resignation of Mrs. Mary Stilwell, who had been working in the collector's office for six months of the year and during vacations.

He said the new clerk will serve in the Water and Collector's offices and that the Water and Finance departments have agreed to share the cost of a full time worker.

Officials commented that nobody has been hired in the Water Department to replace Warren Mellinger, water waste inspector, who retired, or the late J. Theodore George, former assistant superintendent in the department.

Businessmen Hear Industrial Director

Albert H. Hargreaves, director of industrial development for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, yesterday explained the industrial promotion program here during a talk before the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association.

Hargreaves urged backing of a determined effort to bring new industries into the area. He pointed out to the businessmen what the Chamber of Commerce is trying to do in Cumberland and explained the techniques which will be used in the program.

The industrial director also suggested ways in which local organizations and interested individuals might help in the progress of the Queen City.

PE Opens New Subdispatch Facilities At Ridgeley, W. Va.

As part of its continuing program of service improvement, the Potomac Edison Company has put into operation a new $700,000 subdispatching center at Ridgeley, just across the Potomac River from the generating station here.

Establishment of the Ridgeley subdispatching center relieves the system dispatcher at Williamsport of some of the work of supervising the PE system operation, speeds up restoration of service and equipment during emergencies and eliminates delays in clearing equipment for planned maintenance.

The opening of the new local installation this month provides subdispatching centers at each corner of PE's power triangle — Front Royal, Va., Cumberland and Williamsport.

It is planned in the near future to further strengthen the system dispatching facilities by relocating the Williamsport system dispatchers at the new Marlowe, W. Va., substation, now under construction. Here, more reliable communications between the dispatchers and subdispatchers at Ridgeley and Front Royal will be possible.

Ridgeley's subdispatchers are supervising the transmission system in PE's western division. These subdispatchers — all local men — are John Cook, Jr., James Dean, Arthur Shanholtz and Edgar Caldwell.

Elevator Operators Add Holiday Tone To Elavatin' Job

Two smiling and cheerful elevator operators in the Liberty Turst Building have added another service for their passengers— a Christmas atmosphere including music and decorations.

The two familiar figures, Mrs. Mabel Baker and Miss Regina McGregor, both of Hyndman, Pa., have decorated their elevator cars in holiday fashion with music from a mysterious source.

As passengers enter the elevators they stand amid Yule decorations, Nativity scenes and the traditional red and green colors. Always they ask, "where's the music coming from?"

Mrs. Baker has placed a radio on the top of her elevator car, while Miss McGregor uses a "musical church" for holiday tunes.

Workers on the six floors of the building said the two operators decorate their cars annually and on other holidays use appropriate signs and ornaments. On just plain ordinary days, the elevators carry a sign with the message. "Smile," which goes to prove any job is interesting if the employes are interesting.

Robert Yonker Buys Green Ridge Timber

Robert E. Yonker of Flintstone submitted the high bid for some 30,000 feet of timber from the Green Ridge State Forest, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

Former Local Man Will Take Amcelle Post

Appointment of R. Findley Thompson, Narrows, Va., as assistant plant manager at Amcelle was announced yesterday by L. L. Helmer, plant manager.

Thompson will assume his new position today.

Thompson has been assistant manager at the Celco plant of Celanese Corporation since September, 1951. Previously he had been superintendent of the Celco Cellulose Acetate Department.

A native of Staunton, Va., Thompson is a graduate of Davidson College, where he received a B. S. degree in chemistry in 1926.

Originally employed at Amcelle in 1927, Thompson served as a chemist and chemical supervisor, being assistant superintendent of the Cellulose Acetate Department at the time of his transfer to the Celco plant in 1942.

He is married to the former Elizabeth Brengle of this city. They have two daughters. Thompson has been active in civic and musical circles at Narrows. He served as city councilman there for eight years and as vice mayor for four years. He is secretary of the Narrows Kiwanis Club and a member of the Board of Stewards of the Methodist Church.

Election Shows Maryland As America In Miniature

The casual observer probably never would have noticed it, but a review of the election figures has Maryland living up to its tag as "America In Miniature" in worthy fashion.

The final, official figures for the country show that President-Elect Eisenhower received 55.1 per cent of the total vote.

Maryland gave the general 55.4 per cent of its vote.

Only two states were closer, Florida and Minnesota.

The figures again place the state in a position of saying—sometimes—"what happens to me happens to the country."

Since 1864, Maryland has been on the winning side in 14 of the 22 general elections. In the past 40 years, the state has been on the winning side in all but one—in 1948 when it went for Gov. Dewey, Republican, while President Truman swept back into the White House.

But to forestall political soothsayers who may place too much stock in Maryland's being a bellwether, observers are quick to say —remember '48.

'Marg' Conner, Veteran Insurance Agent, Retires After 34 Years With Monumental

Miss Margaret Conner, one of Cumberland's best-known women, is retiring after nearly 35 years of service as a Monumental Life Insurance Company agent.

Fellow-workers gave a dinner in her honor last night at St. Luke's Lutheran Church hall. They gave her an engraved wrist watch, a handbag and a billfold with a sum of money.

The presentation was by Thomas Carroll, home office executive from Baltimore, who got his start in the life insurance field when Miss Conner recommended him for a job with Monumental.

Special guests at the dinner were John Metzger of Frostburg and Irvin Lowery of Ellerslie, both retired employes. Mrs. Duke Burger was piano accompanist for group singing led by Darrell Zeller. Downie Price of LaVale was soloist.

Miss Conner, better-known as "Marg," has had a lively and varied career since she began working as a saleslady at local stores before World War I.

In 1917, she took over a 26-mile rural mail route at Flintstone, which she covered by horse and buggy. In the blizzard of 1917-18, she made her rounds on horseback.

When Marg started to work with Monumental in 1918, her territory covered North Cumberland, Ellerslie, Corriganville, Mt. Savage Road and LaVale to Allegany Grove. The area between Ellerslie and Cumberland was a "walking beat."

Although she has no definite plans for retirement, Marg says she expects to take a part-time job somewhere after she turns in her account book.

"There's no point in getting old just because you're 65," she says.

Snow, Sleet Reaches Area, Warm Weather Seen Today

Although Cumberland had experienced only cold weather up to late last night, the area to the west, southwest and north was having a variety of disagreeable weather varying from slight mist to sleet and snow.

Worst of the area weather reports came from Tucker County, W. Va. At Davis, some 14 inches of snow had been recorded by 7:30 o'clock last night and it was still falling. A seasonal low temperature of seven degrees below zero was reported early yesterday morning.

Thomas reported a thermometer reading of 18 degrees at 10 o'clock last night and sleet was falling on nine inches of snow, making travel extremely hazardous. Parsons had a similar report of sleet on top of snow. The many spectators at last night's Parsons-Coalton basketball game found driving difficult as they headed home.

Highways Cindered

At Bedford, Pa., state police said a slight mist was falling at 10 o'clock but had not made driving dangerous. Some few spots were still icy from previous snow but most roads had been cindered and could be traveled readily.

Other points where sleet was reported included Connellsville and Deal, Pa. However, Rockwood, Pa., which had one inch of snow earlier in the day, reported only cloudy skies last night.

In Garrett County, six inches of snow was on the ground and it was snowing lightly late last night. Heavy wind was causing drifts to pile up quickly in some spots. Roads were icy in spots but chains were not considered necessary. State Roads Commission cinder crews were working.

Cold In Cumberland

Here in Cumberland the official temperature ranged between a low of 24 and a high of 29. Traces of snow were blowing periodically during the day.

For today, the outlook was for warmer weather by afternoon. A warm air mass was moving eastward and was expected to settle over the state by afternoon.

At Blazer, W. Va., mercury was measured at 24 degrees with sleet falling over six inches of snow which fell earlier.

Terra Alta, W. Va., was also getting sleet last night accompanied by a reading of 20 degrees. Between 10 and 12 inches of snow has fallen in that section Sunday and yesterday.

At Orleans Road and Harper's Ferry, weather was cloudy with thermometers up on the 31-degree mark.

Over 20,000 Attend Open House At First Federal

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Cumberland yesterday opened its brand-new $500,000 Baltimore Street building to an enthusiastic crowd which was estimated at 20,000 persons.

Officials of the association said that many people streamed in between the time the doors opened at 9 a. m. and closing time, which was 9 p. m. Except for a four-hour lull between the day and night openings, the crowds poured into the building in a steady stream.

The opening was a big event in every way. Some 2,000 roses were presented to women guests in the first few hours after the opening, but the supply soon was exhausted as patrons and passersby kept filing through the new building.

Some 15,000 brightly-colored yardsticks were given away all day and evening. Officials and employes of the firm were busy explaining features of the futuristic building to visitors.

The three-story building, most modern in the city, combines glass, plush carpets, wood panels and curved floor plans into an attractive but functional design.

In spite of the rush of visitors yesterday, company officials said the association did considerable business and picked up several new accounts.

W. Md. Railway Petition To Be Heard Jan. 15

Seeks To Drop Passenger Trains

The Maryland Public Service Commission has set Jan. 15 for a hearing on the Western Maryland Railway's application to discontinue passenger service in Maryland.

The trains operate between Baltimore, Cumberland and intermediate points. The railroad says it's losing money on them.

Letters Protest

A commission spokesman said the commission has received a number of letters of protests from groups and individuals and several petitions formally opposing the discontinuance of the trains. One, by the Baltimore County Commissioners, asks that the railroad's petition be dismissed.

The hearing is set for 10:30 a. m. in the commission's offices in Baltimore.

In its application, the company said the trains have been operated at a steadily increasing loss since the end of World War II because of a drop in passenger traffic and a jump in the cost of operation. It estimated the revenue received from their operation "is insufficient to meet the direct out-of-pocket expenses by approximately $450,000 a year."

Filed Nov. 13

The application, filed Nov. 13, asked permission to take off these trains: daily except Sunday, No. 2 and 3 between Baltimore and Cumberland, Nos. 5 and 6 between Baltimore and Hagerstown and Nos. 20 and 21 between Baltimore and Union Bridge. It also wants to eliminate a Saturday only train, No. 121 from Baltimore to Union Bridge and Sunday trains Nos. 103 and 104 between Baltimore and Hagerstown.
